The Entrepreneur's Call to Action with Jason

The third quarter of 2015 was a tough one. The geopolitical tensions between the G-7 and BRIC nations threaded through the news as the global economy slowed. The Fed backed down on interest rates – not a good sign. Fears regarding the corruption of our political and financial leaders also continued to grow.

In this week's Third Quarter Wrap Up, I will take a look at the top stories of the quarter and what's coming up between now and the end of 2015.

In each Solari Report Wrap Up, we take an in-depth look at an important subject:

- In our Annual Wrap Up in January, we looked at the growth of global stock markets in Planet Equity.
- In the First Quarter, we looked at the growth of global debt and the end of the bond bull in Planet Debt.
- In the Second Quarter, we looked at Infrastructure and its critical role in building the global economy and global cooperation.

In this Wrap Up – in addition to our review of top news stories, financial markets and what's coming up in Q4 – we will take a look the Chinese equity markets.

China restarted its equity markets in 1990 after a 40-year hiatus. Now, only 25 years later, the Chinese equity markets have a market capitalization of over $7 trillion. That is approximately 10% of the value of global equity markets. If you include Hong Kong's market, it is nearly 15%. Such growth is nothing short of astonishing.

The dramatic rise and fall of prices in the Chinese stock market this year raise important questions about China's role in the global economy. The Chinese equity markets trade at 1) the intersection of the desire of billions of Asians for a better life with

Highlights from Our Last Report - The Dollar, Gold and the S&P 500 with Rambus

Technical analysis is very difficult to do well. Rambus of Rambus Chartology is special: his charting and analysis offer deep insight into the financial and commodities markets. Under his tutelage, financial complexity organizes into important, actionable insight.

Three indicators are of great importance to me in all aspects of what I do. I regularly check in with Rambus for his analysis. For this week's Solari Report, Rambus has agreed to do a written interview rich with charts on:

- Gold
- The US $
- The S&P 500

Results, of course, speak for themselves. Rambus has produced some big ones. Among his most memorable was calling the downturn in precious metals prices in 2011. Like yours truly, he also experienced the wrath of the goldbugs as a result. We will talk about that and more.

Rambus shuns publicity, so he has agreed to a written interview. We will publish it for subscribers and I will discuss it for the audio portion of our report.

The latest Economist has announced that dollar supremacy is unsustainable, while the signs of declining American power are growing. I am glad we will have an opportunity to have this discussion.
