What's the Action? with Sibel Edmonds
An audience of 300+ people (many more streaming globally) joined an all-star cast of sponsors and speakers in Bastrop, Texas on October 31-November 1 for this year’s Secret Space Program. For those who did not join us, videos of the ten lectures and two panel discussions are available for rent or purchase on Vimeo.

The discussions were so rich that I asked Dr. Joseph Farrell, who gave two smashing presentations, to join me in order to recap the most compelling insights. Here is an excerpt from Dr. Farrell discussing CERN (the Large Hadron Collider) in the closing panel on Sunday evening:

“You’re looking at a military budget for this machine to find smaller and smaller building blocks in the standard model of physics. And I’m looking at the machine and I’m seeing something very, very different.

If you look at the magnetic field strength of the LHC — I think it’s somewhere between 8 and 10 Tesla’s — you’re dealing with a magnetic field that is several times more powerful than the local magnetic field of the planet earth. And this is where my problems begin. Because, it’s the magneto sphere of the earth that protects us from solar radiation — it’s part of our environment, it’s part of what maintains life on this planet and that drives the weather systems. And that magneto-sphere, in turn, is coupled with that of the sun.

So, when you look at this the way I’m looking at it, I’m seeing a planetary machine which — by the very nature of the strength of the magnetic fields in rotation — is creating a massive magnetic torsion machine. And that machine is embedded in piezoelectric rock in Europe. And this is going to have a magnetic effect on the planetary magnetic system.

That was my thought all along.

So I’m looking at this as a story where they’re really putting out a public consumption story for us with blizzards of equations that will confuse us all. And we’ll just throw up our hands and say, “Well, they’re doing particle physics.”

But I think the real physics they’re doing is creating a planetary machine that is manipulating the magneto-sphere of the earth…which, through various electromagnetic effects, can even influence the sun.

So, I think the whole particle physics thing is really a big cover story.”

Among other things, Dr. Farrell and I will address specific points which will help you understand the global economy today. Failing to integrate an understanding of what is happening in space and space programs (and the resulting technology transfers) is a significant “material omission” which results in a profound misunderstanding of the economics driving global geopolitics and financial markets.

Highlights from Our Last Report - Health Care Directives with Jo Kline Cebuhar

We are in the fourth quarter, so it’s time to focus on legal and financial planning. In this regard, there is nothing more important than providing for health care planning and clear instructions with Health Care Directives.

I was thrilled to learn that attorney and author Jo Kline Cebuhar has just published a revised and updated edition on Health Care Directives. This week on the Solari Report, she will brief us on what we need to know to make sure we have what we need in place and to review new and increased risk issues related to changes in governmental and insurance policies.
