Making Waves: Entrepreneurship for Everybody, With Jason Bawden-Smith - Feb. 11th

"Your complaint is your call to action."

~ Jason Bawden-Smith

Creative destruction is upon us--the shift is accelerating between Global 2.0 (an industrial economy) and Global 3.0 (a networked economy).

So what happens when productivity rises dramatically? If the application of online and new technologies creates $1 of income by destroying/saving $20 or more of existing income/expense, how is that supposed to work?

Here are several examples in the recent article Why Every Aspect of Your Business is About to Change:

- Skype brought in approximately $2 billion in 2013. McKinsey calculated that in that year Skype transferred $37 billion away from old-guard telecom firms.
- San Francisco's taxi regulator reported that the number of fares per licensed cab fell 65% from March 2012 to July 2014 as Uber, Lyft, and others entered the market.
- When Airbnb entered Austin, Texas, hotel revenue fell by 8% to 10% according to Boston University researchers.

What is the process by which we invent new enterprises using the capacity that is now available? While we are at it, how do we reinvent a more peaceful economy, operating in a positive relationship with each other and our environment?

It's called entrepreneurship – and it's time for a lot more of it. This is a fact despite how US and most G-7 political and economic leaderships are doing a great deal to centralize control... which handicaps entrepreneurs and potential investors.

This week, Jason Bawden-Smith publishes his business biography, Making Waves. It describes how he founded four companies focused on solving environmental problems. Jason's achievements include introducing technology into Australia, that reduced lead poisoning in children and lessened the impact of excessive exploration and mining activities.

To celebrate the launch of Making Waves, Jason will join me on the Solari Report this week to discuss entrepreneurship in changing times.

From the transcript:

Catherine Austin Fitts: Since WWII, one of the largest government investments in the developed world has been keeping citizens in the dark regarding outer space and what humans may be doing there. At the same time, the amount of money disappearing into hidden systems of finance and black budgets (likely related to space programs and space weaponry) indicates that there is quite a lot going on in space. Whether this secrecy relates to the UFO phenomenon, our response to it, or to the hidden control of sovereign governments, the financial system and the general population remains a mystery.

Those of us who were inspired by President Kennedy's support of space exploration believed that we were headed into space in a major way a long time ago. After Kennedy's death, the NASA budget peaked at 4.5 percent of the federal budget. It is currently 0.5 percent.

Dear Friends:

Each of us at Solari sees and hears the need for restoration and rejuvenation throughout our lives and work. We hear the effort to apply the Golden Rule in our lives, our work and our finances. We hear a call for a positive and productive way forward through the changes upon us. We are often asked, "What can I do?" One of the things each one of us can do is to pray. No matter how pressed our schedule is, there is always time for prayer.

On behalf of the entire team at Solari, Happy New Year!

Highlights from Last Week - Russia and Global Geopolitics with the Saker

A "saker" is a large migratory falcon that breeds from Eastern Europe across Asia. It is a more than appropriate handle for the Saker, the military analyst who "flies" from Vineyard of the Saker — my preferred website covering the geopolitical dance between Russia and the US and the emergence of a multipolar world.

Saker has just published a marvelous collection of his posts entitled The Essential Saker: From the Trenches of the Emerging Multipolar World.

For anyone who wants to understand the flow of events in Russia and Eastern Europe, you will find this week's interview and the Saker's writings a rich, fascinating contribution:

"I think it's a war — personally, I think Russia and the US are at war. And it's a war for the future of civilization quite literally because the two models are incompatible. And one of them will have to collapse and be replaced by the other one. It's unclear to me which one it will be, but that's how deep it is now."

"And there is another phenomena: these people [the Western leadership] project their own mindset onto others. For instance, you probably remember that statement that Hilary Clinton made (I think it was in Scotland or in Ireland) that Putin is trying to rebuild the Soviet Union. And that's laughable. It's pathetic. You wonder who her advisers are. Russia has no need or use for a Soviet Union. As a matter of fact, everyone in Russia knows that. There is ridiculous talk today about Russia either planning to invade the Ukraine or now they say Poland and the Baltics — it's laughable. But the thing is, this is what they would probably do if they changed places. Not only are they dead set on never negotiating but only submitting people, but they assume that everybody functions like they do."
