Universities and High-Level Financial Fraud, With Dr. Darrell Hamamoto, March 24th.

To

“If you want to tell people the truth, make them laugh, otherwise they’ll kill you.” ~ Oscar Wilde

Dr. Darrell Y. Hamamoto is a Professor of Asian American Studies at the University of California, Davis. He is an expert on cultural analysis, including the media, popular culture, and sexuality. He is the author of these books:

- Servitors of Empire: Studies in the Dark Side

From The Site

Mar. 31st
What's Next?
Commodities & Negative Interest Rates with Don Coxe

Apr. 7th
The Emerging Multipolar World with the Saker

Book Review: The Devil's Chessboard:
Dr. Hamamoto joins me on the Solari Report this week to discuss the economic model operating at public and private universities, what the model means for undergraduate and graduate education, and how it relates to the larger financial models operating in America.

In Let's Go to the Movies, I will review Spotlight, this year’s Academy Award winner for best picture. This drama tells the story of The Boston Globe’s “Spotlight” team, the oldest continuously operating newspaper investigative journalist unit in the United States and its Pulitzer Prize-winning investigation into child sex abuse in the Boston area within the Catholic Church. This is a topic that Dr. Hamamoto touches on in our interview.

Catherine Austin Fitts
Open Letter to My Congressman

Dear Congressman Blackburn:

Thank you for your service to the people of Tennessee. It is much appreciated.

I am writing today to offer a suggestion of something you and your staff can do to help revitalize local markets, create private jobs and income in Tennessee communities – and communities throughout America – and reduce our national budget deficit.

This suggestion will require no new laws or regulations and no new appropriations. It can be done within the existing administrative resources of federal agencies. Despite the minor expense involved, it can make an important contribution to reviving local and regional markets and economies.

In Latin America, when the economy was restructuring and government budgets had to change, citizens implemented a process called participatory budgeting. The first full participatory budgeting process was developed in the city of Porto Alegre, Brazil in 1989.

Continue Reading

Highlights from Last Week - How to Buy and Install a Safe with Dan Perkins

In the 1970's, Dan Perkins was drafted by his father to build a family safe. Friends started asking his dad to build one for them, leading to the founding of Hidden Safes in Memphis, Tennessee.
Now, almost four decades later, Dan is the president of a thriving family business which has installed thousands of hidden safes and safe rooms in homes and offices throughout the United States (and around the world).

This week Dan joins me on the Solari Report to discuss “How to Buy and Install a Safe.”

As negative interest rates descend upon Japan, safe sales are rising. Along with rising precious metals prices and concerns about the financial system, low or negative interest rates are a reason to consider maintaining safes at home and at the office.

Initially, I believed that buying and installing a safe would be simple. I soon discovered that there are far more uses for a home or office safe than I anticipated. Moreover, the types of safes and the issues involved in a successful installation can be complex. Now, after many years of using safes and talking with clients about the safes they’ve installed, it seems a good time for the Solari Report to publish an introduction to buying and installing a safe.

This report will dovetail with our 1st Quarter Wrap Up in early April. The theme will be “Where to Stash Your Cash in 2016.”

See it here or Subscribe

About The Solari Report

A weekly 1-hour briefing with Catherine Austin Fitts and specialized experts, The Solari Report helps to navigate you through the shifting political and financial climates while building your wealth.

Learn more and subscribe here.

Nothing in this Solari Update should be taken as individual investment advice. Anyone seeking investment advice for his or her personal financial situation is advised to seek out a qualified advisor or advisors and provide as much information as possible to the advisor in order that such advisor can take into account all relevant circumstances, objectives, and risks before rendering an opinion as to the appropriate investment strategy.

© Solari, Inc. 2010-2015

You are receiving this email because you opted in at our website.

Our mailing address is:
Solari, Inc.
P.O. Box 157
Hickory Valley, TN 38042

Add us to your address book

unsubscribe from this list  update subscription preferences