Precious Metal Market Report, With Franklin Sanders, May 26th.

To

"Properly understood, good money is good, not because of the motives of its owners, but because of its own intrinsic character. Truly good money will produce far more social benefits than any amount of bad money spent with good intentions."

~ Reg Howe

This week on the Solari Report, Franklin Sanders of The Moneychanger joins me to take a look at precious metals markets.

Franklin and I will review the likelihood that the primary trend in gold and silver is returning. Franklin has more confidence in the outlook for 2016. I am concerned that the number of plausible and unpredictable scenarios are growing across all asset classes. So expect a lively discussion!

We will discuss signs around the globe that the build-out of the gold-trading system continues, including the Chinese purchase of a London depository and the State of Texas moving forward with plans for a state depository available to citizens.

We will post Franklin's charts in the subscriber area in this post on Thursday. Please make sure you login to access them as you listen to the interview audio. They will be posted in the final transcript.

From the transcript:

Catherine Austin Fitts: So automation is no longer coming; it's here. It's happening every day. I think you can feel it. Every place and every industry is different, but automation is going to accelerate. I really wonder how much is feeding into the frustration that you're seeing in the campaign.

Dr. Joseph Farrell: I think a lot of it is feeding into the campaign. I can only stand listening to so much of the current American political debate – maybe two minutes and then I have to turn it off. But when you listen to these candidates, without exception, all of them are living in Global 2.0.

They have not a clue of what is coming down the pike. And so, they have absolutely no solutions. They are so disconnected from people that none of them is really tapping into the fact of economic divergence. Maybe the closest is Bernie Sanders, but I don't think even he gets it.

No one is addressing the issue of changing technology. No one is addressing the financial repercussions this technology will have. The candidates are all living in yesteryear; not a one of them has a clue.

Highlights from Last Week - JP Madoof with Helen Chaitman

In 2008, Helen Chaitman was a highly accomplished New York attorney with a successful litigation practice in lender liability. Then two things happened. She lost her savings when Bernie Madoff's investment business collapsed. Then her legal practice also collapsed with the wider financial crisis.

However, some people look misfortune straight in the eye and march on through to victory. Helen started helping Madoff victims. Realizing the importance of clarifying tax treatment, she lobbied Congress on their behalf. Today she has emerged as the leading attorney representing Madoff victims.

Appalled at the truths she was uncovering and the silence of the corporate media, Helen published a website and book JP Madoff: The Unholy Alliance Between America's Biggest Bank and America's Biggest Crook.

This week Helen joins me on the Solari Report for an unforgettable interview on the real deal behind the Madoff ponzi scheme and Bernie Madoff's controlling partner in crime, JP Morgan Chase.

You will never view the US banking and regulatory system the same after you listen to what Helen has to say. Best of all you will be inspired by the powerful intellect and personal courage of one attorney prepared to fight for the rule of law up against "all of the money on the planet."
