“So long as stocks DO go up, nothing big is ever going to change. You say you want a revolution? You’re a MAGA guy and you want someone to drain the Swamp? You’re a Bernie Bro and you want the rich to “pay their fair share”? Well, good luck with any of that so long as stocks go up. It’s a very stable political equilibrium we have today, full of Sturm und Drang to provide a bit of amusement and distraction, but very stable for the Haves” ~ Ben Hunt, “Sheep Logic

This Thursday I will present the third segment of the 3rd Quarter Wrap Up, which is my overview of financial markets year-to-date combined with the third 2017 Blockbuster Chartology from Rambus. We will discuss what has happened this year and what the charts and outstanding technical analysis from Rambus indicate about current markets for the US dollar and global fixed income and equity, as well as for precious metals.

You can follow along with the 2017 charts in the “Financial Market Round Up” section in the 3rd Quarter Wrap Up web presentation and with links to the latest Blockbuster Chartology. You will be able to link back to find all the Rambus quarterly reports over the last two years.

In Let’s Go to the Movies, take some time this coming week to watch the History Channels documentary on directed energy weapons. The documentary provides a general introduction to this type of weaponry. Directed energy weapons are often discussed in connection with unanswered questions regarding the 2001 destruction of the twin towers of the World Trade Center. There is renewed interest in connection with growing unanswered questions regarding unnatural fires this year in Northern California, Greece and elsewhere.

Space exploration is considered to be potentially one of key industries and investment opportunities in the coming years. For anyone interested in space then, let’s take a look at one of the most seminal sci-fi movies and its sequel that has been made 35 years later.

When the original Blade Runner was released in 1982, it was not a box office success. Audiences were flocking to less intellectually complex movies of that year: E.T., 48 Hours and Star Trek-The Wrath of Khan. In time, Ridley Scott’s vision of the world in the year 2019 has come to pass in many aspects and the movie became a sci-fi classic with many of its ideas copied countless times.

Highlights from Last Week - 3rd Quarter Wrap Up - News Trends & Stories Part II with Dr. Joseph P. Farrell

This week on the Solari Report, my discussion with Dr. Joseph P. Farrell continues with Part II of the most important News Trends & Stories of the 3rd Quarter Wrap Up.

In Part I, Joseph and I covered the accelerating economic, financial and geopolitical changes. We discussed his new book: Hess and the Penguins: the Holocaust, Antarctica and the Strange Case of Rudolf Hess. We also touched on the Dr. Joseph P. Farrell Virtual Pipe Organ Crowdfund.

This week Joseph and I cover five areas: culture, science & technology, unanswered questions, go local, and inspiration. Joseph’s understanding of the importance of culture to accelerating change always inspires me.

Make sure to access the News Trends & Stories section of the 3rd Quarter Wrap Up web presentation, linked from your subscriber links. Our web presentation includes:

- Control 101 – During the last week of the 3rd Quarter Wrap Up roll out, I will publish my overview of how the centralized control systems work. If you want to understand what is happening in the financial markets and geopolitics, you must understand how the people participating in the transactional ecosystems are controlled individually and collectively.

- News Trends & Stories – Our News Trends & Stories editor Brad Eddins has done an outstanding job of presenting top trends, stories, and videos of the 3rd Quarter.

- Financial Markets – a roundup of market and commodities charts from the 3rd Quarter.
