Question:

Hi Catherine,

I have read recently about ESG scores formed under the UN SDG, instituted through the WUF and WEF, then forced/adopted by the global businesses and corporations. High scores give businesses access to money through investments, loans etc. Businesses with low scores will not survive. These ESG scores will affect every aspect of society, including investment firms like Solari investments, which I noticed already subscribe to them.

ESG score compliance will force companies to do what governments have been unable to do so far, push the UN Agenda 21, 30 SDG’s on all of society, a trojan horse for the Great Reset, stakeholder capitalism, New World Order, or whatever new name emerges. It’s all the same agenda of world control and compliance through global businesses and institutions, including social credit scores, loss of property rights, fair elections, censorship, etc.
What is your advice for citizens with small retirement investments, or young people just beginning to invest? Under their system, I don’t see how any of this survives, and probably gets usurped into the Globalist assets. This is what fundamentally transforming America looks like, and it is already in play.

ESG scores are ominous signs of the takeover underway.

Thanks,

MR

3rd Quarter Wrap Up – Investment Screening: Can We Filter For Productive Companies?

Interview with Alison McDowell

Refer to Glen Beck
Dear Catherine,

I just recently joined your “club” and it is more than interesting to follow your publications and a lot to learn!
I am just trying to connect the dots and still don’t get the current real estate development, especially in Luxembourg, where I am living.
I understand the “asset inflation” due to cheap money or at least the wealthy people who’s assets simply only know one direction for the moment - then also driven by fear and having “betongold” (German, and it means gold out of concrete) in case something happens.
BUT - what about the government and implementing a tax on homes, as compensating for possible inflation and being “better off” as money is nothing worth, same as for debts (a lot of people are highly indebted due to buying instead of renting)?
We know that if a currency reform will happen, the “exchange” rate will be different..
OR - is it also the plan to have commercial banks increasing their balance sheet, not “only” on the liabilities side because when people can’t pay their debt it will automatically be the real banks assets (as owner) - which explains the recent stability and bottom formation of the banking sector..

..it might be a very specific question for my region but maybe you can elaborate the general real estate market on the globe - if people can’t afford to rent anymore, what is the conclusion/purpose to buy for “normal people, including the HNWI, and how long will it take..
thank you for your time and feedback

Question:

Hi Catherine,

I recently had to pay up several thousand dollars to the IRS from a business I owned back in 2019. Unfortunately, I no longer own that business and now I am out some money that I could be using towards buying gold or investing in that small solar panel system I have been wanting to put together.

I have heard people deal with this by saying, "Give Ceasar what is to Ceasar", but I am sorry, that belonged to me, I worked for that money, they didn't. I do not want to spiral down into despair and anguish. I know you have been through something much worse when you had your other business, what advice do you have for me to help me get through this, mentally and spiritually?

Thank you.
Sincerely,
DC

Question:

Hi Catherine,

Hope this email finds you well. I am so grateful to have you in my life and on this Earth now to talk me through all the insanity that is happening. It’s unbelievable how the psychopaths are ruling the world. Well, not how, but rather that they are actually in power. Ya know it’s bad when Putin and Jinping start looking like the good guys. (Great Reset? Putin says, “Not So Fast”, Gold Goats N Guns) That’s not why I’m writing today, though.

Today, I have a question. You mentioned in one of your talks how you got a company to write off a debt by using the money owed to you (to all of us) due to the missing money. I’m wondering exactly how you did it. You mentioned writing a letter and saying something along the lines of, I owe you this $$$, you owe me this $$$. I will reduce the amount you owe me by the amount I owe you. Something like that. I can’t remember which talk or interview you said it in.

My son owes $100,000 in school loan debt. Bless his hear, he was the first one in our family to get a Master’s Degree. Now, my niece has one too. Anyway, can he write a letter like yours. I would assume he writes it to the holders of the loan(s). How does he refer to the money owed to him? Any help with this letter would be so greatly appreciated. I will pay for it, no problem.

Sincerely,
DF

Question:

Dear Catherine,
We are newbies on your website and the amount of information is impressive and a bit overwhelming too. But we are getting the hang of it and thoroughly enjoy all the info and interviews.
In coming clean you advise to not bank with banks associated with CB etc.
As a layman in financial matters, we find it challenging to assess if a bank is a 'good' bank. Maybe our questions are too detailed or personal, but here they are:
   - We use Handelsbanken in Sweden. If we look at the shareholders, it seems OK. Do you agree?

Excellent board

checked with Swedish subscriber:

It's been my “central bank” since my first visit to Sweden. The people were quite human and wonderful. It has become less personal. They are clearly under a pressure from the U.S. to threaten clients if they move money INTO the bank! My colleague who you know has observed the same with SEB. People tend to keep cash spread around in Swedish bank accounts because of the Riksgälden guarantee.

   - We use Knab bank in the Netherlands, owned by Aegon bank. Aegon doesn't seem to be a member of the good guys club?
On line - I like someone I can speak with - decision maker -

- Is the 'blije bank' in the Netherlands a initiative that can potentially become a good local bank?

Interesting…lots of talented people involved. Make it too complicated. Financial point of view, challenging to do in this environment. If you invest, assume it is highly speculative/philanthropy. Better to find a good local bank with a history of operating profitably and /or are there guidelines to help one decide whether a bank is coming-clean proof?

All banks are in the banking system - no one is perfect. Looking for fundamentally productive.

Question:

Hi Catherine,

I hope this email finds you well. I am interested in learning more about alternative asset management. Would you be able to share what you know and the pros/cons of implementing state legislation to allow this? I am wondering how this could impact a rural farming community/towns/county/state.

It would be great to learn some talking points or places to research further so I can help educate others in my town.

Thank you,

Question:

Hi Catherine,

Continued thanks for all of the work you have been doing to help people live a free and inspired life!

Since you published "The Real Game of Missiong Money" in 2019, I have been considering cashing out of my CalPERS retirement account. If you may recall, I asked you when you were in Toronto about how to determine the solvency and health of a pension fund, and you had given me a comprehensive and detailed response. I worked for the State of California for ten years, and the contributions in my account are around US$30k. The interest is around $25k, but I'm not sure if I would receive that if I cashed out. (Do you know what the policy on this is usually?) Though I am qualified to begin to receive allowances this year, I wouldn't want to begin to receive pension benefits for another five years, to reasonably maximize my payments based on my age and previous salary. I am single, no kids or dependents, have no debt, and have an MA degree.

Because of I am anticipating the continuation of increased inflation, at the very least, and who knows what else will be coming (though you have discussed possible scenarios cleary), I am now thinking of cashing out my pension, paying taxes on it, and then investing what remains in precious metals, perhaps shares in XXXXXX Fund, and other investments or roll it over into a Roth IRA and do the same through that vehicle. I am in good health, so I am not too concerned with the health benefits that a CalPERS retirement account comes with. Plus, for nearly 30 years now, I have mostly used and practiced a traditional system of alternative medicine to ensure optimal health through prevention.

What are some of the downsides if/when I depart from the CalPERS retirement system? Would a Roth IRA be a good option to roll over the funds? Are there reasons not to cash out of a pension account, given the times we live in, generally speaking? Do you have any other comments or thoughts on this?

Thank you again so much!

CAF Notes:

As explained in Toronto and about 100 times so far this year on the Solari Report, I don’t give individual investment advice and I don’t give general investment advice.

Will say it again.

Anyone who gives you investment advice without knowing a great deal about you and without an interactive discussion is not competent and should not be trusted.

So you should not ask anyone to engage in such a practice. Asking for trouble.
Formula - Future performance of pension fund as adjusted for possible changes in policy vs Deduction of fees and taxes and investment in something else and its future performance.

Such as fund that is higher % of equities than your current pension fund adjusted for long vs. hedged

Essentially impossible for a hedged equity product to compensate for the fees and taxes.

Some people have higher performance that can offset - own business/ land and food DONE WELL. Done poorly, much worse.

So it all comes down to your estimate of future policy changes or drag of fixed income portfolio and politics. My partner used to call this a GESTALT THING..

Question:

Dear Catherine,
First of all I would like to thank you for the tremendous good work you are doing with your team. So much information, research, and wisdom. I am so grateful for this light. I have become all the wiser from watching and reading your reports, and James Corbett's reports and documentaries. I have so much to learn regarding the subject of money and the whole financial and political system. My interest and expertise has always been in science and self-development (I am a retired physiotherapist and currently a life coach).
I have never had interest in politics or the financial system, until a few years ago, but I have been well aware of the increased corruption in the world of science, especially pharmaceuticals and climate change.

I am struggling with understanding the financial system, what is happening, and what the change to digital currency means for our practical daily life. I have no insight or clarity and 75% of what I hear goes over my head. I keep digging though.

My questions are around actions I need to take to decrease my risk of losing all our life savings. We are at retirement age and have close to 1 million in investments. I understand that is not a good place for them to stay. (it is a commercial bank, TD Wealth)

Please listen to 1st Quarter Equity Overview and explore the links

Where do I start?

Enjoy the learning journey

I believe what you are saying is to take the money out of the commercial bank and find a respectable community based Credit Union. My local CU had just under one billion on the consolidated balance sheet at the end of 2020. Not very much. I don't have enough understanding to know what I am looking for.

Local recommendations/Bank ratings. Diversification.

What to do with all my investments, it is where our income is coming from mostly right now.
Gold and silver cannot pay the bills, or can it be used to barter?

May become possible.

How can I preserve our income when we are fully retired? (we are almost 57 and 66 years old.)
What is going to happen to the dollars in the bank, how are people going to pay for their food and bills?

Scenarios are infinite near
We have no debts, we own our home, but not the land (we pay pad rent). We have a small vegetable garden. Should we invest in land?

Land could be a good investment - if you can lease or timber and a good jurisdiction. Takes time.

Local food system - journey — Coop, community development fund.

We have been looking around but the market is crazy right now, prices are insane.(we live in Sorrento, rural BC Canada)

Could get much more. Inflation is significant.
I don't speak the financial language, and don't understand the lingo. (I was born and raised in the Netherlands, so Dutch is my native language, although my english is pretty good. I moved to Canada in 2003).
I am a little lost and I could use some help.

Learning Journey - what is important is that if you move out of where you are not, only move into things that make sense and understand.

Is there a 'great reset for dummies' version, what is happening, Mr. Global's plans, and the consequences for those that are just retiring and tips to make the best of our future?

Listen to 1st Quarter Equity Overview.

I feel like I am running out of time and the pressure to do something is driving me into a wall.

Turtle - see link above
How quick should I be acting, for example taking our money out of the commercial bank?

Don’t know if you have in bank deposits vs. good stocks vs lousy securities. Good stocks? Companies that you understand and make sense to you. Move to an improvement - diversification or more real against inflation. Do not move out of panic or fear.

And in return: How can I support, what can I do?
I am sorry if I am not clear about what I am asking. I find it hard to even articulate and I am not even sure what I need to ask to gain more understanding.

You are fine. What you have done so far is very sensible. So keep being sensible and focus on protecting yourself for inflation. Don’t act out of a sense of urgency or fear.

I am sure I am not the only one asking for your help. I appreciate any tips or resources that are simple enough for me to understand.

Thank you for your time, you are appreciated.

Kind regards,

Question:

Catherine:

I am writing to get your thoughts on the following: I keep hearing some financial people talking about how debt is a hedge against inflation because you are paying off the debt with inflated dollars. Robert Kiyosaki talks about this a lot. Ergo, you have a mortgage and inflation will inflate away your debt. You are paying back your mortgage with devalued dollars.

My question, however, has to do with a person’s cashflow. So, inflation also means that a greater percentage of your income is going to go to pay for things like food and other necessities. For example, I have done some basic research and found out that during the Weimar Hyperinflation, people spent somewhere around 95% of their money on food.

It seems like this assumption only works if you assume that a person’s wages actually rise with inflation, and everything inflates at the same rate. However, US ages have lagged behind inflation for decades. It seems that people always assume their cashflow will stay the same.

Anyway, just wanted to get some thoughts on this because, having been raised by depression era grandparents, debt in my family was always considered to make one “less resilient” not more.

Thanks,

Question:

Hi Catherine

Having reviewed your numerous ideas about where to stash cash, and to protect ones financial position though investments in personal and community development, I have a situation which I cannot find an answer to. I am a millennial who is selling my home and moving onto family owned farmland to rent an existing home. Allows me to live off well water, have acres available for gardening, outbuildings to run my business from, ability to do solar power while not paying ever increasing property tax and home insurance. As I have no mortgage - the home being purchased in cash, I am concerned about where to put it since family members do not need financing. Very happy I took your advice to be debt free. How does one protect this amount of cash being a millennial that does not need it yet for retirement? Already have significant amounts of precious metals in physical procession. Hate to see it the cash waste away in the Credit Unions low interest rates, susceptible to potential bail ins and what not. Have cashed out from the stock market, and I have also payed penalties to cash out of government guaranteed retirement investments. I have no faith in their ability to abide by their existing agreements with the citizens that have paid into it. The retirement age to collect benefits has continuously been increased where I reside. Firmly believe that retirement benefits (as well as unemployment, disability) will be combined into a basic income for all. I hope that this is enough background info for you to suggest useful ideas.

CAF Notes

Excellent question - would like to do a Solari Report on local investment later this year.

Time has come to network good local CPA, banker, lawyer who can expand your options/network

People in your situation:

Investment in your skills and equipment - profession or health - being your own doctor income producing real estate farmland
Land - timber
private equity - debt or equity particularly fond of food or health related - financing a trustworthy local nurse practitioner to set up
Angel network: Listen to building real wealth with Franklin Sanders
People investing - tithe - find there is an interesting synergy over time between giving and profitable opportunities - almost like soil remediation which later contributes - or paying for someone like Joel Salitin to come speak which then turns into opportunities. Several ways to go about it:
   Network - CPA, banker, lawyer
   Young entrepreneurs
   Schools
   Identify local need
Be very careful who you let know - may want to do things anonymously or through others - like lawyer
More you learn about your local financial ecosystem, the more opportunities you will find. Out of 100 potential interesting opportunities only a handful will turn out to be good investment opportunities, so key is to develop a very high risk management mechanism/filter
Question:

Hi Catherine,

I'm a recent subscriber (and a Katherine, too :) I love all your content and I am learning so much, which is great because I love learning new things!

I heard you say on today's "Ask Catherine" that you like to invest in people, and I felt a "nudge" (perhaps the Holy Spirit's leading?) to contact you. My husband and I have been married for almost 20 years and we have 4 boys ages 14, 11, 10, and 6. (I've been on the "natural health" path for about 20 years and I was fortunate to learn about the dangers of vaccines from the mothers of the vaccine injured children I did therapy with starting in college, so my boys are all unvaccinated and healthy as can be.) Dan is a priest in the Episcopal church and I homeschool our boys. We moved to Dayton, Ohio in September because Dan accepted a call at a church here. (I must add that we are both very unhappy with the church's response to the "pandemic" but Dan is trying to shepherd the parish through the intense fear and anxiety that most of them are experiencing as a result of accepting the mainstream covid narrative. I am struggling with attending church at all, from its caving to government "mandates" to so many sanctuaries being used for these poison injections. I don't like Dan's salary coming from this institution that is basically in the covid cult, but he feels called to stay and try to work through the difficulty. I do wonder if they will mandate the injection for him, though.)
Anyway, since the fall, I have felt that I need to do something in response to this crazy situation we find ourselves in, and I have been praying about what that might be. I recognize that raising my boys is "enough" and certainly a full time job, but I also feel a great and urgent need to create community and provide support to parents and children moving forward. This is not a new vocation for me - I was an autism support teacher in the public school system from 2004 - 2007, and when my oldest was born in 2017, I founded a private practice providing social skills groups and a summer camp to kids with social and communication issues. I also started an internship program for teens and young adults on the spectrum to help them learn employment skills, and I led group and individual parent coaching sessions. I sold my company at the end of 2017 because I wasn't able to homeschool and run my company and sleep. I had to pick two out of those three :)

The best homeschool time and money we've spent over the years, in my opinion, has been on survival skills (especially fire building and shelter making) and farm skills. There were some great classes and groups where we used to live (in DC and Baltimore) but none here in Ohio, as far as I'm aware. I also led a "homeschool homestead" group for about a year where I taught homesteading skills each Friday like making kombucha and kefir, carding wool, sewing, knitting, gardening, chicken keeping, etc. I know a bit about permaculture and companion planting. My oldest and I worked with a farmer from 2018-2020 making soap and candles and helping her run her farmer's market stand in Williamsburg, and I helped out at her farm camp. My boys all mountain bike and Dan is the head coach for the team that's just forming here. We are an outdoor family :)}
With everything going on, having seen a 5G tower put up just 2 miles from our house in the city of Dayton, and feeling EMF symptoms and observing some in my boys as well, I realized I needed to find us some land outside the city. As of last week, we are under contract on 18 acres in Jackson County, Ohio. I know a lot of folks are buying property in rural areas for "bugout" purposes, and it would be great for that, but I have visions of using this land as a place to gather, play music, read books and discuss them, garden, worship, ride bikes, forage, harvest, etc. It seems to me that what we all need right now is an abundance of authentic connection with other humans, animals, and the soil. I envision making all kinds of things (such as soap, tallow balm, candles, beeswax food wraps, kombucha, kefir and yogurt and cheese, ice cream, preserves, salsa and other canned goods, etc) and teaching others how to make them as well, having families come for weekends or summer "camp" and learning these skills. I just heard yesterday on the Wise Traditions podcast about Meadows Bee Farm in Vermont that offers farm camp for kids with a badge program where they work toward skill mastery. Programs like this one that are already established and thriving could be a good jumping off point - though as a former business owner, I'm used to designing and implementing new programs. The property is within 2 hours of Cincinnati, Dayton, and Columbus. It has some open flat acres for pasture, a stream, a creek, a cabin, and several hiking trails. About 65% of the property is wooded with mature trees. There's no zoning or deed restrictions so the land can be used for anything.
The only obstacle at the present is financing. I'm wondering if this is something you or someone you know might be interested in as an "investment opportunity" - a nontraditional one that is more likely to pay dividends in the joy and satisfaction of the community members than money. Either way, I'd appreciate your prayers! Thanks for everything you do.

Best,

Question:

Hi Catherine,

I need to store a large amount of cash for 3-12 months while gradually deploying it into real assets. I’m concerned about bank seizures and was hoping you could make a recommendation on where to store it so its both safe and readily available. I was thinking of offshore bank accounts (Cayman, BVI, etc), and/or diversifying across various banks in various currencies in various countries (Germany, Mongolia, Georgia etc). The simpler the better though.

Thanks 😊

CAF NOTE:

So far looks like not a 2021 issue - but moving fast- using inflationary policies to confiscate rather than confiscation - seem to be very happy with that approach, particularly as the mind control is working well. I would diversify for bank deposit guarantees at very well capitalized and well managed banks. Wealth jurisdictions are more likely to protect deposit guarantees.

Question:

What’s driving the price of Bitcoin, other than market madness?

According to Rob Kirby, ‘China has thrown its weight behind settling its oil purchases from Iran and Venezuela in cryptos. This explains why cryptos have taken off and gold/silver have remained in the dumps. This is de-dollarization in a big way. Dollars are of no use to Iran and Venezuela. They’ve been cut off from Swift and there’s nothing to be gained. The Chinese found a work around. This will heighten cryptos and make the prices go much much higher. The crypto is getting recycled back to China in the form of goods purchased. All brought on by American sanctions. Trading in gold isn’t a viable option. The net result is a weaker dollar and the oil continues to flow. The mainstream press is avoiding the story. The US Dollar is on its way out as the reserve currency. The direction is clear.’

Question:

Hello Catherine,

I kept seeing these videos with the mask "worms" popping up, but when you uploaded this interview at Solari I decided to take a look on my own.

I check a blue surgical mask from an opened box and a new FFP2 (KN95) mask under a medium-powered microscope (45x magnification) at work. I am attaching some pictures I took.

I was really surprised to discover these fibers myself. At the inner (white) side of the surgical mask I only saw a few of these fibers. The outer (blue) side of the mask, however, was full of them. As you can see at the picture of the inner side of a surgical mask, the fiber looks "disintegrated" at its end, indicating that it may not be a worm but something synthetic.

Same thing in the FFP2 (KN95) mask, although there were way less of these strange fibers. Again, there were fewer fibers at the inner than at the outer side of the mask.

What strikes me is that these dark blue fibers were not glued together with the rest of the fibers making up the mask sheets. The mask sheets were made from countless microfibers glued to each other and only got loose when I scratched them. The dark blue "worms", though, were clearly loose and they were just entangled in the web of the fibers making up the mask sheet. They also had a somehow metallic and flat, ribbon-like appearance.

None of these dark blue fibers were moving, but they did move when I warmed up the mask with my breath. Also, I got some on my finger and they started slowly moving as well. I think it was because of the temperature. I was using a "cold" light source (optic fiber) and the people that made these videos on the internet may have had light sources that were warming up their specimens. Perhaps they move because of thermal expansion and contraction of different parts along their length. When I scratched the surface of the surgical mask, the light blue fibers that got detached from the rest had also a slight movement when they were warmed up, similar to the dark blue "worms".

Although I don't think that these things are alive, or organic, I wonder why these dark blue fibers are on the masks. They are clearly different from the fibers making up the masks, and they are also not glued together like the rest, making it easier to inhale them.

Comment:

Dear Catherine,

When I watched the video about the contamination of the 5 different masks I immediately saw parallels to the contaminated masks and the forensic case of the Phantom of Heilbronn. Back than I was already very interested in how science is used and this is also expressed in my studies. This was a highly embarrassing forensic case for the police in Germany (Himmelreich, 2009).

Contaminated swabs were the reason why the police linked 14 murders to a phantom female killer (Himmelreich, 2009). The German police asked for help from European profilers and even consulted fortune tellers and diviners (Himmelreich, 2009).

A female factory worker had contaminated all the swabs. The cases linked were going back to 1993 and a wide range of crimes were linked and this did not create any suspicion for a long time. The crimes linked to the Phantom of Heilbronn stretched across different geographical areas and across very different crimes, and included a wide range of victims (Himmelreich, 2009).

It took about 16 years for the embarrassing truth about the Phantom of Heilbronn to finally come out (BBC, 2009).

The case of the Phantom of Heilbronn shows that there is considerable incompetence and resistance in clarifying very dubious situations in which science is used in official investigations.

The production of face masks and swabs for the test may take place under conditions where a deliberate or accidental contamination can take place. If the masks and the swabs are produced in different locations in different countries then an accidental contamination with more or less identical pathogens or particles is less likely. Contaminated masks and PCR swab tests are by the nature of their uses affecting the lungs and therefore additional pathological effects caused by the masks and swabs may be assumed. Independent laboratories across the world should investigate these contaminated masks and swabs. An autopsy may show the damage to organs by parasites or particles but in many locations autopsies were officially abandoned, making it less likely to detect damage caused by parasites or particles. The use of anti-parasitic drugs against covid19 has been negated by authorities and professional organisations in many countries and this may raise the question whether there is knowledge out there in certain economic and political circles about the nature of the contaminations or whether this is just incompetence or ignorance.

Question:

Hi Catherine,

I have some connective questions that have been baffling me: what was the justification for going with the new, untested mRNA gene therapy (Moderna and Pfizer) instead of the traditional vaccine procedure and why was the former accepted without any questioning pushback vis-à-vis the traditional vaccine route?

The only supposed traditional vaccine is Johnson & Johnson's but if Jon Rappoport is correct and the mystery virus was never isolated, then that is a bogus vaccine and one can only wonder what is really in it?
Once it was announced that the new gene therapy constituted a "vaccine," most people were willingly railroaded into a procedure that few questioned.
But since the public had been conditioned to accept the traditional vaccine mythology, why was there hardly any pushback and questioning (once it was explained) of the new, radical procedure except that the dumbing down of America was illustrative once again?

Thank you.
Sincerely,

Comment:
I finished analyzing 2 publications, one on Covid mortality and the other on the effects of anti-covid vaccination in pregnant women

What I find is huge, I'm even afraid to publish it (I'm already the target of censorship!)
Did I understand correctly?

I THINK YOU DO…looking more and more ;likely one of the goals is female infertility- better for sex slaves, transgender, make room for longer elite life expectancy and robotics/automation

Likely the obvious is true.

Only results for pregnancies carried to term are included.

In the main study (December 14, 2020 to February 28, 2021) 72% of vaccinations occurred during the first or second trimester of pregnancy and therefore these pregnancies are not completed at the time of publication.

Of the 3958 people included, only 827 had a full-term pregnancy, i.e., 21%; the result for the remaining 79% is not known.

But we read further that "among the 827 participants who had a full-term pregnancy, the pregnancy resulted in a live birth in 712 cases (86.1%), a spontaneous abortion in 104 cases (12.6%), a stillbirth in 1 case (0.1%), and other outcomes (induced abortion and ectopic pregnancy) in 10 cases (1.2%). A total of 96 of 104 spontaneous abortions (92.3%) occurred before 13 weeks' gestation, and 700 of 712 pregnancies that resulted in live births (98.3%) involved individuals who received their first eligible dose of vaccine in the third trimester."

What does it mean when a pregnancy is carried to term that resulted in a spontaneous abortion? If this refers only to the 28% of women vaccinated in the third trimester and therefore who should have carried their pregnancy to term, then why indicate that the spontaneous abortions occurred before the first trimester of gestation (13 weeks)?
How did we go from 3958 pregnant women included to 827 participants? What happened to the 80% of pregnant women? They are not counted because their pregnancy did not reach term during the study. And out of the remaining 827, there were still 13% of miscarriages.

Why not wait until all the pregnancies were carried to term before publishing the study?

Stillbirth, the termination of a pregnancy after 20 weeks, affects about 1 in 160 pregnancies (0.6%) each year in the United States, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. About 24,000 babies are stillborn each year in the United States.

A stillbirth is the death or loss of a baby before or during delivery. Both miscarriage and stillbirth describe a loss of pregnancy, but they differ depending on when the loss occurs. In the United States, a miscarriage is generally defined as the loss of a baby before the 20th week of pregnancy, and a stillbirth as the loss of a baby at 20 weeks of pregnancy or more.

https://www.cdc.gov/ncbddd/stillbirth/facts.html

Thus, the 13% stillbirth rate among women who should have carried their pregnancy to term during the study period (because they were vaccinated in the third trimester) should be compared not to the usual miscarriage rate over the entire duration of the pregnancies but to the stillbirth rate in the third trimester. The ratio is therefore 21.7 times more stillbirths in pregnant women vaccinated against Covid-19 with mRNA vaccines than in unvaccinated pregnant women.

It also reads, "Table S4 (supplementary material, concerns AEs reported on VAERS only: 50% of vaccinations occurred during the first trimester of pregnancy, the most commonly reported SAE (serious adverse event) was miscarriage (46 in total, 37 of which were in the first trimester)."

"One neonatal death after delivery at 22 weeks, the individual was diagnosed with COVID-19 prior to pregnancy (3-day mild illness, 8 months prior to delivery) and received Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine dose 2 one day prior to delivery; symptoms of preterm labor began 2 days before dose 2 and birth occurred 32 hours after dose 2, at 22 weeks and 2 days; symptoms reported after receipt of dose 2 were muscle aches and chills; additional information regarding any adverse events associated with dose 1 of the vaccine was not available.

Other conditions specific to the pregnancy or newborn include a report for each of the following: calcified placenta, amniotic fluid leakage, shortened cervix, gestational diabetes, preeclampsia, irregular/painful contractions."

All this leads to the conclusion that there is a huge rate of miscarriage after vaccination in the first trimester of pregnancy but that the authors are doing everything to hide it!
We also learn some interesting things about SAEs reported under active surveillance because the authors also followed many non-pregnant women.

Under active vaccine surveillance, Table S3 (supplementary material): the frequency of reporting of serious adverse events according to non-pregnant patients after the second dose, within 24 hours after the vaccine is 68% (calculated on 623,631 persons). This is to be compared with the official rate of adverse events following vaccines!

The conclusion of the article is worth reproducing

Limitations

"We were unable to assess adverse events that might be associated with exposure in early pregnancy, such as birth defects, because none of the pregnant women who were vaccinated in early pregnancy have had a live birth recorded in the v-safe pregnancy registry to date; follow-up is ongoing. In addition, the proportion of pregnant women reporting spontaneous abortion may not reflect actual post vaccination proportions, as participants may have been vaccinated after the highest risk period of the first trimester, and very early pregnancy losses may not be recognized.

While some pregnancies that were vaccinated in the first and early second trimester were completed, the majority are ongoing, and a direct comparison of outcomes on the basis of timing of vaccination is needed to define the proportion of spontaneous abortions in this cohort. Because of sample size constraints, pregnancy and neonatal outcomes were calculated as a proportion rather than a rate."

"Of the pregnancy-specific conditions reported to VAERS after Covid-19 vaccination, miscarriage was the most common. This is similar to what was observed during the 2009 influenza A (H1N1) pandemic after the introduction of the 2009 inactivated H1N1 vaccine, where miscarriage was the most common adverse event reported by pregnant women who received this vaccine. “

CAF NOTE:

My comment to someone whose spouse got Covid Injection despite first hand knowledge of adverse events from Covid Injection. What were the long term issues?

Response.

Traditionally, you have many people who show no signs of problems other than a long term weakening of their electromagnetic body and auto-immune problems. It is sufficiently subtle enough that it is typically not associated with the vaccinations. But this is totally different, so we really don't know.

The doctors that I trust appear to agree that the mrna tech is not detoxible. What that means, I don't know. They are quite worried. But humans are resilient, so I don't think we know. They are very disturbed by the fact that the animals all died in the previous mrna animal trials. The greater problem is that I do not think we know what is included in these injections - and I suspect there are different batches depending on rich neighborhood vs. poor neighborhood, white vs. black.

Here are the possibilities:

1. Some to serious diminution of spiritual energy/power and ability to connect with higher minds.

3. Dependency on the vaccine treadmill - as the covid op rolls out. They are going to go for regular updates of injections and to create dependency.

4. Interaction with ongoing bio, chemical and EMF warfare - this is more likely to cull the elderly or not useful or non compliant. I think this is what likely happened during the Spanish flu - it was the injection plus EMF that killed most people. I have one subscriber who insists that the vaccinated will poison the unvaccinated, so it will be the unvaccinated who do not make it. Since the opposite has been true for the last 140 years, ever time, I am disinclined to believe it, particularly as they leadership is prototyping. This is truly an experiment and one in which they are prepared to kill a lot of people figuring it out.

5. Serious weakening of immune system and or rising toxicity 4-18 months out - at this point your physical problems manifest as your particular weakness, so it does not look like the injection.

6. Fear is the greatest enemy here. People can make themselves sick with their own fears and "sick pictures" - I have a ritual I do where I tell all the nanobots in my body (from food, global spray, nanodust from online shopping) that they can only stay if they serve Christ. Then I made the ones that will not leave and have a baptism for the ones that stay.
There are likely going to be legal problem...some WAG guesses

- GMO people can be moved to 'Non-person status" - their children can be owned, or patented products are required to have children so that the crispr folks can dictate the traits and sperm of the baby you can have

I think your primary risk is the one I have been trying to figure out for several decades - Injected people are likely to be more susceptible to mind control. At some point the more mind controlled will be dangerous to those who are not or less susceptible. It is the Gideon's Army issue. Some people do not keep their eyes on the skyline. And if they can not do so to protect themselves, how can you trust them on a range of other issues.

The mind control technology is MUCH more powerful and much more effective and subtle that almost everyone can understand and appreciate it. Because my experience with it is so long and deep, I have been lucky to have endured long enough to get a framework for it. And I am no longer heartbroken when I lose people I love to it. Has happened many many times for decades.

Your spouse, like everyone in America, is likely the target of an AI/software program individualized for her that works 24/7 through smart phones, wifi, internet. For some reason you seem to be less susceptible. Some people just are able to reason through it/above it.

I would just remind you of the Course in Miracles:

“Nothing real can be lost. Nothing unreal is real."

PLEASE DO NOT UNDERESTIMATE THE MIND CONTROL

1. Ingredients are unknown
2. They are not vaccines
3. Can not be detoxed
4. Rates of adverse events and deaths remarkable high already - historically any vaccine with this experience would have trail cancelled
5. No need for vaccine, let alone Emergency USE authorization - HCQ and Invermectin work
6. Central bankers are drivers

The next one is Del Bigtree from thehighwire.com explaining what one of the foremost virus scientists in the world, Dr. Geert Vanden Bosshe is saying about how the vaccine will kill off your immune system.

The last one is Naomi Wolfe warning us about the horrific reality of Vaccine Passports which could be forced upon us imminently.

Question:

Catherine,
I just had a client meeting and during this discussion I heard the phrase “when we all are vaccinated”. This is the fifth time I am hearing the same phrase from five different and independent people. This entrainment and mind control technology is real. The people I spoke to are not aware of what they are getting injected with. They are joking about the side effects but they are not aware of experimental gene therapy and the consequences of it nor are they aware of nanoparticles and the coming CBDCs and the connection of the two. I spoke to a bus driver last week. He is the only one fully aware of what is going on. He knows ten people in town who got killed through the injections, some within hours. He fully agreed with my point of view and what has been told in this group thus far. Ideas?

just one more thing: I was wondering what human beings the “vaccinated” people will become. Will they change personalities at will if so desired by the central bankers and Mr. Global? For example, a once loving and caring person might turn into something else at the push of a button. I’m thinking they could be manipulated through mind and body anytime and anywhere through radio frequencies, etc. once satellites are up and running. Ideas?

The BBC recently reported that “US restaurants face ketchup packet shortage amid Covid pandemic” https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/world-us-canada-56657822
When I first read the article my reaction was to laugh. It immediately made me think of the scene from a French or Spanish film from the 70s or 80s in which amongst a maelstrom of massive devastation and carnage the heroine is frantic about her broken fingernail. (It was a great scene. I’m trying to recall which film it was in. Does it sound familiar to anyone?)
In any case, I thought it was ludicrous that with all the misery going on around us people are now worried about ketchup packets. It’s a good metaphor.
Later in the evening I thought how ironic it is that the US wants to control all the world’s sea lanes and satellite lanes yet despite having the most sophisticated technology they can’t manage to sort out some ketchup.
Then I began to worry. I thought that this incident, regardless of how apparently trivial it might seem, clearly shows how fragile our supply chain system is. It made me realise that the talk I’ve been hearing about a complete breakdown with mass starvation is not as far-fetched as some make it out to be.
The more I think about this the more takes I think I’ll have. It’s quite a lot of food for thought.

I wanted to ask you this and it would probably be better, I think, if it is not answered “publicly”. I did not want to post it on Subscriber Input because I know you are careful about bringing up the “cosmic culture” issue.

My brother, a retired ophthalmologist not a man with a tinfoil hat, has been discussing with me the Roswell incident etc for a long time. He has read a lot of Richard Dolan’s work among others. I could not stop reading those documents…..I felt like I had taken a mind expander drug or something akin to that. My question is have you heard of this site? I am sure Richard Dolan has. If you prefer not to answer, I will certainly understand. My brother has assured me that all of what I have read is true. This brother is one of those multifaceted gifted people who can build computers, radio towers (ham radio operator), overhaul an engine, self-taught violinist who plays in the local symphony, etc. In other words, he knows a lot in addition to having been an eye surgeon so he is credible/rational for sure. Question:

Hello Catherine
I cannot thank you enough for all your insights and sharing so that we can educate ourselves and arm ourselves accordingly.
My questions are regarding flying and to travel now or wait and the logistics.
We have two adult children living in Europe, one in UK and one in Poland.
We are concerning going to Poland and seeing them and our grandchildren NOW before they demand health passports as we are not getting the vaccine (injection).
What is your recommendation? I fear that we have a small window of opportunity. Our challenge is being Canadian is:

- We can leave using a rapid antigen – they put something up our nose but according to a friend who recently travelled it’s not invasive far reaching where I fear they are injecting people.
- We need to come back to Canada and stay in Covid-jail.
- Returning to Canada we are asked to have the invasive PCR test which I definitely feel will put something into me I do not want.

Do you recommend we take a taxi through the USA border and fly USA to Europe and return that way? Is flying USA-Europe better than Canada-Europe?
Should we even go to Europe? When do you think the passports will be required?
What do you suggest is the best methods for getting to see our family (children and grandchildren) before it’s too late? They are our assets and we are working on the Family Wealth Plan as your suggested ‘read’ (excellent book).
Thank you kindly for your thoughts and input to us and perhaps other Solari subscribers.

Dear Catherine,

I am not sure what your current situation is, but I believe that mine is similar to yours, which is why I am taking the liberty of writing to you about it.

I am a US citizen and an EU resident. My residency card will have to be renewed next year. In light of Ursula von der Leyen's diktak last week (please see above) that Americans will need a vaccine passport in order to travel to Europe this summer and that all 27 EU member states will have to accept this unconditionally, I am concerned that by the time my residency comes up for renewal this will be extended to include a test or injection as being a pre-condition or mandatory for renewal. In such a case I won't be able to stay without a test/injection but without a test/injection I won't be able to leave either.

Look for Saliva Test
CHARTER BOATS OR PLANE

I have learned from you not to try to predict the future, rather to envisage different scenarios and develop strategies for each of them. In this case, however, I am having difficulty trying to imagine a way out of such a situation, should it arise.
Is this something that concerns you?

YES and NO - many near death experiences.

Everything is so up in the air it is hard to make plans where to go and what to do, but have you given any thoughts to preparing for this eventuality?

Yes, on the look out for a Saliva Test for Europa

If so, would you mind sharing you thoughts and help put my mind at ease?
Thank you for taking the time to consider my problem.

Question:

Hi Catherine,

My wife and I are relatively new subscribers. I've been listening to more and more of your reports on mind control and manipulation, and have been starting to exercise my own diligence. Perhaps you could call this a broader sense of skepticism, as well.

I wanted your opinion on a project that was started in Seattle last year called Community Loaves. The idea of this non-profit (started last April I think) is to enlist community volunteers to bake a prescribed recipe for bread and help distribute to the city's food banks via a robust distribution network and backend team.

At its formation last year, my mom joined in as a baker and has been a diligent supporter, both baking and promoting the program. Without an eye for such things a year ago, I thought of this as a great program, feeding people, gathering community involvement.

What triggered my skepticism and investigation was noticing how this program has just become a cornerstone for my mom's daily life. It's a sort of belief system and spiritual purpose, in the absence of true community, ritual, and action in life. She is always talking about it and forwarding emails on their numbers (growing) even a year later.

Looking briefly into Community Loaves, I noticed its founder, Katherine Kehrli, is an Associate Dean at Seattle Central College, where she says her mission is to "train and graduate future gate-keepers of the food system." She has a background in marketing and technology, and previously worked for Microsoft. All her work is centered around the food industry, but with this entrepreneurial, marketing and technology bent, plus her ties to Bill Gates.

Maybe there's nothing, but it smells strange. What do you think?

P

CAF NOTE
Could be. Particularly if there is a process to inject materials in the loaves after they are baked or to use the network for covert purposes.

Could also be the energy coming from being around foodies and helping other. Food bank networks do tremendous good, lots of great people. A way to have community when community is being destroyed. But you are right, much better to grow real community.

Will see what if anything I can find out.
Question:

Dear Catherine,

Have you noticed that a disproportionately large number of men in the alternative media have beards compared to the rest of the population. (This includes Alex Jones, Andrew Kaufman, Dan Dix, Daniel Liszt, Dave Cullen, Del Bigtree, G Edward Griffin, James Corbett, Jeff Bewick, Jon Rappoport, Ken Jebsen, Lionel Nation, Max Igan, Patrick Wood, Paul Schreyer, Richard Grove, Spiro Skouras. Stefan Lanka.) Dr Joseph Farrell seems to be the most recent to join the club.

Do you think this is purely coincidental or is it an indication of something deeper?
I know that at first glance this might appear to be trivial, but I think such trends carry meaning.

All the best!

Hi Catherine,

Thank you very much for your wonderful report with Jon Rappoport. Coming Clean in the original and also the 2021 update has been very useful for me and I have shared it numerous times. Before doing so, I made sure to see that it was on the public/non subscriber page. So many people have been inspired, and will continue to be inspired- chief among them, me.

Great things happening here! Would love to see you again and or visit. I do know you keep a very productive and busy pace. Just wanted to state my feelings and with “imagination becoming reality” it might happen. 😊

Quick summary: For quite a while from October 2020 through a couple of weeks ago, I have been “turtling through taffy”. Several breakthroughs have happened and things that I was obligated to do (and did not want to) have now come to a close. YAHOO!! More delegating is happening, XXXX and I are reaching new heights in communication and working together. Even after 28 years of marriage and 29 years of knowing each other, we are evergreen and keep loving and learning.

JXXXXX turned 80 last year and will turn 81 in July. We are thankful despite of a few medical set backs, last year, she is robust and healthy and enjoying life. We will be in XXXX again this year and as always, you have a standing invite! Two summers ago, we got a new bed and a new couch in the cabin AND internet last summer- we are ready to rock and roll and have a great set up for a remote office. I will probably buy a printer this summer to leave there and XXXX will build me a corner desk where I can look out onto the pond.
My question:
I liked when you mentioned in a Solari Report that there would be something you are developing that might possibly be like a Discord server- but created and maintained in house at Solari- that will be added in the future.
I was wondering the timeline of when you see that vision come to life?

Thanks again for everything you do and for continuing to be the wonderful lady of integrity that we know and love!!!

Hello Catherine,

Thank you for sharing all of your wisdom and insight, we look forward to your posts every week… such a treat!

We have connected with a Solari Group in our area and are so grateful to meet up monthly to share food, hugs and information on ways to prepare for what is unfolding.

FYI... when I signed up with Solari, I used my gmail address, to register, but do not feel that I should be using that address for conversations with you regarding such sensitive matters; hence, the use of my proton address to submit my question.

I wanted to know if you have heard anything about the FEMA camps?

I listened to a recent podcast from Brave New Life - Souvereign and James Grundvig... https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=JRktYfuVvNk (at the 42:00+ minute mark) James mentioned that his connection just informed him that FEMA just bought 25,000 units of cyanide; he also mentions electronic guillotines. Do you know anything about this?

CAF NOTES:
NO
Orders for electronic guillotines may be paper cutter
Leadership far prefers free range solutions - mind control and downloading OS. No need for camps.
Setting up domestic terrorist game to be for profit and use existing prison system - remember they want people to “fail” - AI/software plus fusion centers makes it profitable to have population kill each other and can engineer 1x1 solutions. Listen to Deep State Tactics Part 1-12
Free range solution and mind control much more frightening.
FEMA Camps - distraction, disinformation and worst case

Dear Catherine,

I meant to send this a few weeks ago when I first saw this movie Kong and Godzilla. These words are in case you haven't come across its content yet.

From 49:40

What is it?
"Its a breakaway civilization."
"Its from page of one of the Apex playing God handbook."
"The Illuminati are running shadow economies to fund a hidden colony in case one of these governments or mega-corporations hits the doomsday button."

Within the next 10 minutes we see a super maglev vehicle accelerating past 600mph to take the characters halfway around the world to Hong Kong, in a tunnel.

I say 'super' maglev because very soon these craft are flying sans tunnels, down a giant shaft in Antarctica to hollow earth, Kongs home.

If there is a question it relates to whether you can offer some analysis.

Cheers

They appear to be leaking about the underground transportation network. I will see if I can watch it. Need to see it to say.

Question:

Hi Catherine,
Thanks for the great wrap ups with Joseph. In them you mentioned a lot about the infants running the US and I was interested in your thoughts on the Commonwealth, as it appears we have more than our fair share of infants.

The UK looks like a circus with bumbling Boris and also the Health Minister Matt Hancock and all of the conflicts of interest he is caught up in, but despite this we are still seeing some of the harshest lockdowns and restrictions we have seen and some of the largest injection uptakes in Great Britain.

In Australia where I live again it is a circus with Queensland (the state I live in - which is 2 and a half times the size of Texas) we keep having snap 3 day lockdowns based on 5 positive cases (probably false positives of course) - no deaths or hospitalisation and the whole state being told to wear muzzles (or face diapers as you call them. Our Premier (Governor equivalent I guess) keeps talking about the importance of testing (or DNA harvesting) - meanwhile nobody questions the fact that her father (also an ex politician) is chairman of the Singapore-registered and China-tied Gene Technology Alliance Foundation GTA - just a coincidence why she keeps pushing the importance of testing. We have now seen the military taking over the logistics of the injection rollout in Australia from Brendan Murphy the Chief Medical Officer, with the below short video (only 3 mins) linking this to some legislation that was rushed through our national parliament late last year removing any criminal or civil liability for military which raises some questions about this development?

https://youtu.be/N8Ai2wJcGKU
Again I was just interested on your insights (if any) more specifically to the Commonwealth (and Australia) and what role the Crown plays with Mr Global.

Also as a side note - you have inspired me to start praying again, so for that and a lot of other things you continue to do I am sincerely grateful.

Blessings

Hello Catherine,

Thank you so much to you and to your team for the excellent and thought-provoking content Solari consistently provides. You have been a powerful source of light.

Seeing what is happening in Israel breaks my heart for many reasons and I fear Israel is being used as a test ground to see what the elites can get away with before implementing these plans globally. Do you have any thoughts as to why Israel has been chosen as the "test country?" Do you think it has something to do with their large Jewish population?

Keep up the great work. Send love and light.

Catherine,

I've had a heartbreaking experience with a twenty year-old granddaughter who has been confused about her sexual identity for the past five years. She's been weaving back and forth between being heterosexual and thinking she is homosexual. She wore a tux for her high school photo. Then, she had her first boyfriend last year. Now she wants to be called Michael. I hardly knew where to throw myself with worry and wonder, trying to figure out what was at the heart of her fractured sexual identity as I watched with horror this trend among many young people.

Then, last week I was at a church function, enjoying a dessert buffet with four other women when the subject of sexual fluidity came up. Four of the five women sitting at my table reported having granddaughters with this same problem. Two of the granddaughters had found doctors willing to inject them with male hormones. My heart stopped, but I didn't have a heart attack, so I guess my heart is fine. But again, I found myself assailed by the question, what is going on?

And then, today, it occurred to me that glycosphate compounds might be responsible. So, I did a literature search. The evidence that glycosphate compounds disrupt male and female hormones, both in the ovaries and testes and in the brain, is overwhelming.
The good news is that I believe my hypothesis is sound; that is, glycosphate compounds are the source of the devastating gender chaos we are witnessing.

The bad news is that I fear it will be years before reality sinks in. Lives are being destroyed by the shredding of sexual identity. Again, my heart breaks.

God, have mercy on us.

Here's one article that justifies my hypothesis. There are hundreds more that support it. https://www.mdpi.com/1660-4601/17/16/5664

CAF Notes & Links:

My guess is that there is an 80% chance your granddaughter is being targeted - she is what is called a Targeted Individual - same with the other granddaughters - and the most important influence is coming through wifi/smartphones/Internet

If you have not read this, you should

There is a major financial and covert effort to significantly increase the number of transgender young people underway - appears to be much more women. Very big money.

Question:

Friends and Family,

I just sent a letter (attached) to the Secretary of Health and the members of the Department of Health in a follow up to my April 16th letter.

As you will be able to read, I asked for action items and a response to this latest email. Many of you will be shocked to learn that I have not received a letter/email or acknowledgment that my information was received, let alone read, from my first email.

This time I used the Receipt Read function in my email to create a legal trail.

I urge each and every one of you to write to the Secretary of Health and inform him of your concerns related to the EUA program for the COVID19 therapies, at least those that are WA residents.
Let's keep the joy and laughs rolling as we fight the good fight!

Dear Catherine,

Regarding the alarming things that are happening in our world today you frequently mention the enormous amount of mind control to overcome before people stand up and start to counter these things.

I have read numerous books on mass and mind control and they always disappointed me. Gradually I came to the conclusion that our dominant scientific paradigm is not appropriate to come to the core of this matter. If the human mind is a metaphysical phenomenon and not mere a product of physical brain activity then in order to fully grasp the principles and technology of mass and mind control, we need spiritual scientific concepts – concepts to be found for example in gnostic traditions, esoterica, occultism and, particularly, anthroposophy.

Now with this premise, I wrote the attached article, which I like to share with you and the Solari's, because I believe that getting to the bottom of mass and mind control is the very key to building up immunity against it.

Best regards,

Question:

Hi Catherine,

We are so very grateful for you and your team especially now. I just finished reading your 'Ask Catherine' questions/comments for April 20th, 2021. One of the very last comments was about ‘Canadian National Sparks Bidding War With $30 Billion Offer For Kansas City' along with a link to the Zero Hedge article.
I remembered reading that Bill Gates indirectly owns CN through Cascade (the same company that bought his farmland in the US). Cascade is Bill Gate’s investment vehicle and is the largest shareholder in CN. From what I can gather from other internet searches, Cascade has been picking up CN share for a long time.

Here is another link to the CN-KNS propaganda page telling you about their goals, ‘safety, efficiency….' and why you should invest with them. Thought you would be interested. https://www.connectedcontinent.com/our-advantages

One of the interesting tidbits for me was that Cascade bought CN shares from our Canadian CPP portfolio!! Does this help connect any dots?

Hi Catherine,

I just wanted to suggest (if you haven't already seen it) watching "Can We Take a Joke?" which is available on Amazon. It is only an hour long but it gives a good sense at just how crazy the censorship is and also that it is coming from the "left". I wasn't expecting this film to shed much light on how the covid cult mind works, but I have to say that it did and recommend it thusly. Also.... I received the latest Solari Report and it is wonderful. Thank you for your work.

Question:

Hi Catherine,

Daniel Estulin gave an interview circa 2009 where he briefly discussed his findings after years of research in the National library of Florence. He stated two of the most powerful families in the world are the Savoy and Frescobaldi families which are respectively worth trillions and quadrillions of dollars. He gave no more interviews on this topic from what I can find (unless he did so in Spanish). Would you ever consider interviewing him on this fascinating subject (wealthy, powerful old aristocratic families)? Or perhaps you can speak to this topic, specifically the level of wealth and power he claims they own. Similarly, researcher and author John Coleman has stated a consortium of old Italian families ("fondi") exist which he claims "are so wealthy they would make David Rockefeller look like a piker".

Hi,
I am looking into freeze-drying foods and this morning I realized I might find wisdom on this through this site. We have a lot of local farms I would like to support and this way I could preserve foods while they are in season. We live in a tiny home, and it would be great to lessen the weight of food storage too.
Has anyone here purchased a freeze dryer? I am thinking of getting one for the community we live in by finding others to share the cost of buying it.
For the people who don’t know what they are, I am including a link.
