2nd Quarter 2021 Wrap Up:
News Trends & Stories Part I with
Dr. Joseph Farrell

Catherine Austin Fitts: Ladies and gentlemen, welcome to The Solari Report. It's that time year again- the 2nd Quarter Wrap Up. It's like a quarterly 'Cuisinart' with Dr. Joseph Farrell.

Dr. Joseph Farrell: Thanks for having me, Catherine.

Fitts: Because of where you are and what's going on, I started to say a 'tornado', but I thought, "No, we're composting."

Joseph, I miss you terribly. Normally, I would drive over and we would talk and have dinner and 'chew' through it. Now I have to relay to you by one of my least favorite mechanisms.

Farrell: Same here. Justin (Woods) and I were talking about the bridge over the river there at Memphis being down. So, maybe it's a good thing you are not driving over.

Fitts: I could be swimming down the Mississippi.

Occasionally I have to watch the fear porn and the hope porn. Some person said, "Two million people are going to die from the vaccination, and the housing market is going to crash."

I checked Zillow recently, and I noticed that my real estate in Hickory Valley, as usual, has never risen. So, I doubt that it will crash. This is one of the advantages of rural living.

Joseph, how have you been for the last quarter? Busy?

Farrell: Busy, exhausted, and, like you, I'm dealing with plenty of the fear porn. Now it's becoming apocalypse porn; it's just over the top.

Fitts: The shriek-o-meter keeps turning louder. I don't know where the highest possible volume is, but I think we are facing a tsunami of lies. These people can create more lies faster. It's unbelievable.

Farrell: Well, they are trapped in a box. They have trapped themselves in their own thought processes for so long that now they have to 'gin up' the lies to keep everything going. It's phenomenal to me. They are locked in a pattern, and they can't get out of it.

Fitts: I'm hoping that the Going Direct Reset hard copy will come out of the printer this week, and then we will mail it to you. I can't wait for you to get it. I'm going to say this for the subscribers: If you haven't read our description of the Going Direct Reset, you have to. Everything is generated out of that machine.

I don't know if you saw Celia Farber's (journalist) comment when Matt Hancock was 'booted out' of the U.K. Health Ministry and replaced by a Deutsche Banker.

Farrell: That's reassuring!

Fitts: Celia Farber said in her subtitle, "Catherine Austin Fitts gets the gold." What she meant by that was, "You're right. This is the central bankers."

Farrell: And what a healthy bank to put in charge of it, too!

Fitts: Deutsche Bank knows how to ignore science and how to lie.

So, the Solari Team had quite a challenge. Brad Eddins is our Top Picks editor, and we have a great team of people who have been working on putting together the stories. I'm going to show everybody that there is a commentary on the home page that describes all the different stories and the presentation today, but it will take you to our web presentation, which will be available once we publish this Part I. It will show you in the News Trends & Stories section the trends we track, and the Top 10 Stories in Part I and Part II, and then Unanswered Questions, Take Action, and Inspiration.

You will be thrilled that there is no more Trump Report Card. That has gone away. I think you had half of the alphabet still to go in terms of budget performance.

Farrell: Isn't that grading?

Fitts: He was down to a 'G' on the budget. Then we have the Top News Videos and the Commentaries you can link to from the web presentation on the home page.

So let's just dive in. We are looking at the Top 10 Stories from Part I. Part I is Economy & Financial Markets, including Precious Metals and Currency, and then Geopolitics.

We will do Culture, Science & Technology, Food & Health, and Unanswered Questions in Part II.

This is Part I, and we start with Economy & Financial Markets. I don't know if you remember this in the Annual Wrap Up. I said that Story #1 was the War on God because the War on God and the Going Direct Reset are so intimately connected. For the 2nd Quarter, the Going Direct Reset nuts and bolts are just pouring out.

Economy & Financial Markets

Story #1: Going Direct Reset: The Financial Coup Consolidates with a Reengineering of Governance.

They are reengineering the entire global governance system, and part of this, of course, is consolidating the financial coup and engineering the financial system so that it's a complete control system. I think you understand the big picture on this better than anybody I know.

Tell us what your insights have been over the last quarter. I know you've been talking about this a great deal.

Farrell: They are essentially the same as yours. If we look back over the last three or four years, you started talking about moving all the liabilities into the public sphere and moving all the assets into the private sphere. Then we had FASAB 56, which we both basically are in agreement on, that this is really the triumph of that whole hidden system of finance over all public finance. Now they are coupling this with social credit systems, digital currencies, cryptocurrencies, and so on.

I believe it's that one point. The cryptocurrency/digital currency is what is going to undo them for one very simple reason. We have discussed many reasons; we've discussed the energy usage necessary to maintain those things.

Fitts: I sent you the U.N. Crypto Climate Accord.

Farrell: As I said many years ago, weather derivatives are a handy thing to have around when you have weather manipulation technology.

But, no, the other issue about cryptocurrencies and digital currencies – and we've briefly touched on it – has really been brought home. If you've been watching bitcoin, this is as volatile as they come. I can't 'for the life of me' fathom how they expect to run a currency system with such volatility in it unless they are planning to use their ability to manipulate things to manipulate that currency.

In other words, we have corporate coupons added to volatility that is just part of the game with these cryptocurrencies. I believe this is a big bust 'right out the door' because they are putting people into the same position as the Germans in the Weimar Republic (German state-1918 to 1933): They get paid, and they rush off to the grocery store to buy their loaves of bread only to find that the money has depreciated 50% in just the short time that it has taken them to get to the grocery store. This isn't going to work.

Fitts: I don't think the CBDCs (Central Bank Digital Currency) will be particularly volatile. If you look at bitcoin or the current cryptos, yes, they are volatile vis-à-vis the reserve currency, but I think that it's going to be interesting to see the nuts and bolts of how they do this.

What they are trying to do is globalize the dollar reserve system. So, let's look at what came out over this quarter. They are trying to create a global taxation system. I think that they are trying to move the military because of all these efforts to make the military look incompetent. Then they can say, “Oh, you give us $1 trillion a year, but we don’t control our air space, and we don’t know who does.”

So for $1 trillion a year, they can’t even figure out who controls our air space. That is a stunning thing to stand up and say, don’t you think?

Farrell: It’s stunning, particularly if you take into account what NATO just announced. Did you see what they just announce? Article V in NATO is the clause that everybody comes to everybody else’s defense. Now they have extended it to states.

Fitts: Really?

Farrell: Hang on! There is the workaround of the volatility right there. Number two, they also said something to the effect that, “An attack to, from, or within space is an attack on us.”

Stop and ponder those words.

Fitts: Remember that Article V was what they exercised after 9/11 to take the war on terrorism global.

Farrell: Now they are extending this to to, from, or within space. Stop and think about that. They are not talking specifically about nations, which it could be. But it could be more. Just when they did that, France’s UFO reporting agency released their report.

It’s looking like, in addition to this financial reset, they are ‘ginning up’ a narrative now about space.

Fitts: You move the taxation global, you move the military global, and you move the bureaucracy global. Remember, once you have all those three cloud contracts in place, you are talking about further being able to strip the civil service of any power or control, and you are going to globalize through the defense contractors and the private corporations.

Farrell: Good luck to them! I don’t think that this is going to work. I really don't. We're getting too much pushback around the world. But they will try. These people have done nothing but double down on their narratives and agenda for the past few months.

Fitts: One of the extraordinary blessings of the last year is I've gotten to know and work with some people in the science and healthcare area who I think are so amazing and gifted and talented. It's been extremely difficult for them to grapple with the fact that the government health ministries consider science irrelevant. That is very hard for them to grapple with.

I keep trying to interest them. I keep sending them copies of The State of Our Currency and the digital Going Direct Reset. Now I'm going to send them the Going Direct hard copy. I keep trying to get us to integrate the health with the money so that we can look at this on an integrated basis. It's slow to happen.

I'm trying to learn biology, and they are trying to understand derivatives. It's a struggle.

Farrell: This business about viewing 'any attack to, from, or within space' is part of this financial reset. They have to do this. What interests me is that their language is suggesting or hinting at threats that they have not disclosed or they are going to fake or whatever. I think it's a very, very significant story. I immediately thought of you.

Fitts: I can't believe I missed this.

Farrell: It's coming out. I had a blog about it.

Fitts: I'll see it as soon as you post it. "Space Attacks Could Trigger Article V." Let me show everybody. Everyone should talk to you to get the 'juice'!

I was listening to you on Dark Journalist talking about Nazi International and what is happening in space and what Wernher von Braun (German born space engineer) had warned about.

Farrell: Here we are.

Fitts: “Mommy! Mommy! The aliens made me do it!”

Farrell: This is the other part of this financial reset. You’ve been stressing over and over again the role of mind manipulation in all of this COVID plan/’scamdemic’ virus. If they are able to put those kinds of platforms up in space to manipulate mind and emotions, then they will want to protect those assets. So they have to do it.

Fitts: Absolutely. Nobody puts money where they can’t enforce. That’s the reality.

With Going Direct Reset, I think it’s important to stress that the financial system is just a portion of the governance system. What we are looking at is not just a restructuring of the financial system, but of the whole governance structure. Maybe not at the top; we still don’t have a clear picture at the top.

The central banks are taking over the Treasury functions and moving to collapse sovereignty.

Did you see the Jimmy Dore show? Now when you see PressTV in Iran, you get a sign saying that the U.S. government has taken down their website and has collapsed their domain.

Farrell: I’ve seen that, yes.

Fitts: I can’t tell whether they are just blocking it or if they have really taken it down.

Farrell: From what I know, it appears that they are just blocking it. I think the Saker recently reported that the site is still up; it’s just being blocked.

Fitts: Right, they’re not taking down Press TV; they’re just censoring America’s access to information after we spent several years listening to them say, “Look at what the Chinese Communist Party is doing to the Chinese people because they can’t read the New York Times.”

Anything else on Going Direct?

Farrell: You have an interesting story there, Has the Federal Reserve Kept 2 Sets of Books for the Last 50 Years?

Fitts: ‘You betcha’!

Farrell: You ‘betcha’ they have! That leapt out at me because I’m thinking about all of those bearer bond stories. I know I keep ‘harping’ on those, but this has been going on for a very long time. ‘For the life of me’, I cannot see any good counter-argument against those things being real. This has been going on since Chiang Kai-shek moved all of that nationalist gold (allegedly) into the New York Federal Reserve, which I believe he did.

Keeping two sets of books? Sure, they have been. Absolutely. FASAB 56 is the proof of it.

Fitts: FASAB 56 is the movement. It’s interesting. While DOD is saying, “You’re giving us $1 trillion a year and we don’t know who is running the air space,” they are also missing $20 trillion as of 2015. Now we have the number up to $96 trillion. We just don’t know if that jump from $21 trillion to $96 trillion is unsupported, undocumented, or all adjustments.

We just published an update by Skidmore because he has tried to get the documents, and they refuse to give them to him. So, you are basically talking about the air space out of control and the finances completely out of control. The question is almost: Is there anything related to this system that is not out of control?

Farrell: I don’t think there is, but this business of the aerospace dovetails perfectly with that NATO announcement. They are making a play for wanting to control space. When NATO says something like that, what they are really saying is, “We intend to monopolize it.”

This coming at the same time that all of this financial issue is going on, it looks like they are moving as much of the financial system into space as they can. That is going to be their lockdown method.

The problem is that they are going to have a big problem with curmudgeons like me who will insist on a physical medium of exchange – whatever that may turn out to be. You are getting pushback from the states with these bullion currency resolutions and bullion depositories. Tennessee is looking into it, and Indonesia is now looking into it.

I think, “The game is very apparent to anybody with half a brain and a little gold.”

Fitts: You and I were convinced that the Queen wanted to have Brexit. I was convinced that it was because they wanted to keep the German or ECB financial regulators out of their offshore havens. One of the big questions here is: Is the Anglo-American Alliance moving their offshore system into the suborbital platform?

I think that the answer is yes. If space triggers Article V, then you have Europe and the U.S. together in a globalized dollar system, and Russia is not in NATO.

Farrell: Russia is not in NATO, China is not in NATO, and they’ve been building it around the SWIFT’s (Apple developed program language) clearing system for quite a long time. The way I’m reading it is this is not going to work because they have to get everybody on board. The fact of the matter is they don’t have everybody on board. That is their problem.

Fitts: Right after Putin did the summit with Biden, suddenly, magically, now you have aggressive vaccine programs in Russia. They are playing hardball, and if you look at what Putin said about vaccinations historically, it’s somewhat surprising.

Farrell: I don’t know if that is all unexpected; I think it is more coming out of certain cities in Russia. I don’t think it is yet a program of the Russian government. What concerns me more vis-à-vis Putin and Russia fitting into the system is the recent incident with the British frigate in the Black Sea.

Fitts: What was that about?

Farrell: I think it’s provocation.

Fitts: They are trying to start a war with Russia?

Farrell: They are trying to start a war with Russia, and I think the reason is that they need everybody integrated into this system in order for it to work. Russia's not playing, and they are not going to play.

If they are successful in provoking a war – which I certainly hope they're not – I think they will be in for some very rude shocks.

Fitts: The Chinese are reported to be very aggressively working with American corporations on their CBDC. So, they seem to be playing both sides.

Farrell: They are, and I don't think that will happen as far as Russia is concerned. I've talked many times about Russia's overtures to Japan and its overtures to India. Geopolitically, Russia and China are not aligned over the long-term – either financially or geopolitically.

Fitts: I'll tell you who else is not aligned: India. We know that India stopped the Doha Round (trade negotiations), but if you look at what is going on with the vaccination program and the centralization of doing an all-digital financial system-I'm sick of these clever names-it's all digital. That's what they want.

India has been behaving like they did on the Doha Round, which is that you have too many farmers and too many people in the rural areas who know that these vaccinations are dangerous, but we will talk much more about that in Part II. I don't want to get caught up in it here.

Farrell: The bottom line is that they have to institute this system globally; otherwise it's not going to work. The problem is that you have too much pushback from individual states in this country, and you have too much pushback from countries like Indonesia that are looking at all of this and saying, "We need our own bullion depository".

Fitts: Let me go back to all of these wonderful scientists and doctors and people from the health side that I've met. You have all of the world who cannot believe that the lies are this big or this evil. They are going through an educational process of saying, "Oh my God!"

I'll give you a perfect example: I was with Mary Holland of the Children's Health Defense. She is a remarkable attorney, and they are litigating, litigating, litigating. Dr. Meryl Nass was with us. They are wonderful people, and they were very hopeful that the reports of young people's deaths and myocarditis would slow down the full FDA authorization. Dr. Nass has been watching these FDA hearings. Apparently, they are pushing for full authorization by the beginning of the school year. "No problem. It doesn't matter how many kids we kill. It's not a problem. Full approval coming." They took a straw vote, and everybody is on board.

Mary and Dr. Nass were stunned. If you look at how many people needed to be killed to get a vaccination pulled, we are exponentially beyond that number.

Farrell: Oh, way beyond!

Fitts: It's almost as though it doesn't matter how many people you kill and how many people you disable and how many people you injure; they are just going to keep doing it.

The lawlessness is beginning to finally dawn on people. If you have empathy, it's hard to envision a governance structure that has no empathy.

Farrell: Precisely. You can't have a governance structure that is not going to obey and live by its own laws. This is the other problem.

There is so much cynicism right now. They are creating a climate of opinion that runs counter to their narrative. This is the problem that they eventually have to face.

I don't see them facing it. This is another reason I think their system that they are trying to implement is going to ultimately collapse.

Fitts: I hope you're right, but I've been waiting for that since I was four and a half. I'm willing for it to be this year.

Farrell: Me too.

Fitts: One of my best calls was at the beginning of 2020 when I said, “The number one issue before us is: What are we going to do about the Beck brothers?” Here we are.

Anything else on Story #1 before we go on to Story #2?

Farrell: No, but I do want to mention that you also have The Greatest Violations of Nuremberg Code in History. I think it’s highly important for people to look up the legal doctrine called ‘mens rea’. This is the doctrine of the real mind. In order for a crime to be committed, there must also be an intention. This is the part of the law that deals with intention. Mens rea was used at Nuremberg. It’s a very important doctrine, especially in connection to the Nuremberg trials.

People need to start looking at that and seeing how it was used, and then looking at the mens rea going on right now with this great reset and the COVID plan/’scamdemic’. It is very clear.

Fitts: I don’t know if you saw the Denmark study, but there are a couple of things that prove intention on this. One, it is well-known that we have herd immunity. There is no reason for a vaccination. Second, we have effective therapies. There is no reason for an emergency authorization, let alone a full authorization. Finally, what now appears to be coming out – and we will talk about this more in Part II – is that my understanding is that the lipid toxicity in these injections is going to cause infertility in women on a significant scale. The important thing to understand about the nature of the lipid toxicity is that it was impossible that they didn’t know this before they started giving them.

As a matter of science, it is clear that this is genocide, and it is intentional.

Farrell: The intention is there. This is why I think people need to start looking into mens rea as a legal document. At a minimum, under that doctrine, what we have here is a crime against humanity.

Genocide is a level above that in terms of the doctrine, but it’s there, and people need to start looking at this and make a determination based on: If this is the case, and the contra are indicating science behind these ‘quackcines’ (as I like to call them) is being deliberately ignored or censored, then you have clear intent. That means that we need to start holding people accountable before the law. By ‘law’ in this context, I mean before international law.

Fitts: One of the places that it is going to come down to – and we will talk about it later – is taxation without representation.

If central banks will take over the Treasury and there is no democratic representation, then under the law, you have a responsibility to make sure that your tax money goes lawfully. So, we are back to that.

My concern is if you are looking at the science of at least what we know about what is happening with vaccinations, we are talking about something that is going to have a very dramatic demographic impact – one way or the other. Whatever happens, we are now contemplating scenarios of very dramatic and abrupt change.

Farrell: It’s interesting that you mention demographics. Very recently, I was reading a story about the demographics of people in this country who have received the vaccine. ‘By and large’, it’s the Caucasian population that has received the largest percentage. Blacks are not going as heavily for the vaccine, and neither are Hispanics.

Fitts: They’re too smart.

Farrell: We’ve been here before, and we don’t want to do it again. It’s going to have a huge demographic change and effect.

Fitts: There is something that I want to put into your ‘big brain’, and I want you to ‘shake it around’. Whenever I’m contemplating a problem, I bring it to you, and then you do whatever it is that you do, and then you ‘burp out’ the most amazing ideas.

One of the stories that most impacted me this quarter just happened. It came because Cynthia McKinney (American politician and professor) tweeted it out. One of the people who runs News Trends & Stories for us identified it. A2 is a big dairy company in New Zealand and Australia. On their earnings report, they traded off. It was because an analyst was concerned that a Chinese company who is a competitor who makes infant breast formula had announced that they expected lower earnings as a result of the vaccinations – infertility.

I want every subscriber hearing or reading this who owns shares in Nestle or Proctor & Gamble, or any company that will be affected by a drop in births to call up their investor relations department and ask them what adjustments they are making to their earnings projections in business in response to greater infertility from the vaccination.

Here is the thing: Under SEC law, they are required to disclose it.

I want you to be thinking about this: Can you imagine if tomorrow 10,000 people called the investor relations department at BlackRock and Vanguard and Proctor & Gamble and Nestle? Who are all of the companies that make money from children – from infants? What if everyone called them and started demanding to know what the impact on earnings of the vaccinations was going to be?

If a Chinese company knows it enough to announce it with earnings analysts, I'm sure that Proctor & Gamble knows.

Farrell: Absolutely.

Fitts: It's time to call your pension fund and ask them across the whole portfolio. Contact your pension fund and ask.

The reason I bring this up is that you are talking about the pushback. If we can start pushing back on the investment side, that can rip open many doors.

Farrell: And plenty of information.

Fitts: Can you imagine being the president of CalPERS and discovering that the birth rate is going to go down because of vaccinations?

Farrell: That's a pension fund nightmare!

Fitts: They lowered the average life expectancy. In 2020, the U.S. life expectancy dropped a year.

Let's go on to Story #2.

Story #2: Going Direct Reset: The Debt Spiral and Inflation.

We've always known this was coming, but we are clearly in that S-curve. In sovereign governments, the debt with the coronavirus shutdown is just spiraling. It really looks like they are 'soaking the system' for every last thing they can, but inflation is kicking up. Did you see how much U.S. housing prices were up last month? It was 14.3%.

Farrell: That's unreal.

Fitts: God bless Hickory Valley because mine was not up. The great thing about Hickory Valley is that we miss the pumps and the dumps.

Clearly, inflation is squeezing people. Millions of people have been living in a moratorium from their rent or their mortgage payment and accumulating more and more debt. I said to John Titus on Money & Markets this week, "It looks like they are trying to build a constituency for the universal basic income because everybody is going to be in the corner at some point. That is what they are going to promise."

What is inflation like where you are? What has been happening?

Farrell: I don't really notice it. I went out for groceries a couple of days ago, and I noticed my bill was a little higher than normal, but that was largely because of what I bought. I really don't notice it; I don't get out enough to notice it. I'm sure it's there though.

I did hear a very interesting thing on the news that might also be playing into this. I heard this again very recently. In the state where I'm at, they are talking about people coming into the state and buying up land. It's largely Chinese doing it through cutouts. They are buying up land so that they can grow marijuana crops.

Fitts: Really?

Farrell: Yes. What it's doing is pricing the land out of the reach of farmers who may want to use it to farm ordinary crops. It was unclear to me what they were talking about, but they were also talking about laundering money in the billions of dollars into the state to the point that the state legislature is now considering bills to prevent this.

It is going on in the form of bubbling the real estate out of the reach of farmers.

Fitts: Do you have any idea where they are planning on marketing the marijuana?

Farrell: I would assume it would be within the state because this is one of those states that has legal marijuana. If it's going on in this state, it's occurring in the neighboring states as well.

Fitts: I don't know if you realize this, but Tennessee has the largest per capita marijuana sales of any state in the country except for California. California is number one, and we were number two the last time I looked. It's our biggest cash crop by far, and that was before they legalized it.

Farrell: What concerns me here is if this is a pattern that is going on and bubbling the real estate so that they can grow more marijuana, they are putting ordinary agriculture out of business.

In other words, "Get everybody high on legalized marijuana, buy up the land, and run the farmers out of business."

Fitts: Everywhere you turn, they are running farmers out of business. And that's before they play the 'carbon credit' game as viciously as it could get.

Farrell: Right, and we are in the middle of this very strange weather in this country, too. I believe this is weather warfare. There is no doubt that this is what is happening. They are literally trying to drought farmers out of business or flood them out of business.

Fitts: Can I tell you a funny story? There was a wonderful farmer who came over. Do you remember the dinner we had in your ‘neck of the woods’ to celebrate the first phase of the organ crowdfund? The first phase was very successful, and there was a wonderful farmer from Kansas. I just love this man; he’s ‘smart as a whip’. At that point, he had retired. I think his wife was a teacher.

This man is very smart, and they are big fans of yours. They read all of your information. They are Solari Report subscribers.

He was tracking weather warfare as it relates to farming. He wrote this long, detailed post at Subscriber Input about how the tornadoes were coming down the highway, and then if there was an organic farm, it would take a right turn and take out the organic farm. Then it would go back to the highway, and continue on. It would only turn and take out the organic ones, and would leave the conventional alone.

It was like the fires in California. They magically burn some houses, but magically not others. They must have GIS maps of the voting records!

Farrell: I wouldn’t be a bit surprised.

Fitts: I wouldn’t either. I did Community Wizard, so I know the power of what that data can do.

It’s this very long and very thoughtful, intelligent, wise post. He’s a serious farmer. So somebody posted, and I responded. We were having this dialogue because I’ve seen the tornadoes steering where I live in Tennessee. It’s definitely happening here.

Farrell: Same here.

Fitts: So this person signed on and said, “When I first heard you about CIA drug dealing, I thought you were crazy. Then I came to realize that you were right about that. Then you said what you said about 9/11, and I said you were really crazy. Then it turned out that you were right about that. Then you warned about the mortgage fraud, and I thought you were crazy. Then the financial crisis happened, and I knew you were right about that. Finally, after all of these years, I decided that I should probably subscribe. But you know something? I just subscribed, and now I read that you really think they can steer tornadoes. You are completely crazy!”

Farrell: Oh, no – they can!

Fitts: So I got on and said, “You know something? I would be happy to refund your money. We don’t want you to be here if you’re not happy.”

He said, “Yes, please refund me. You are totally crazy!”

Farrell: They can steer the weather. We have the northwestern part of the United States baking in record heat right now – in Seattle, in Portland, in Vancouver, and so on.

I just put up a blog about this weather. Shortly before that hit, the FAA put out a notice to airmen. I don’t know if you saw the article. It came out recently. They put out a notice to airmen that flying over the HAARP (High-Frequency Active Auroral Research Program) facility in Gakona, Alaska was prohibited because they are going to be doing experiments.

HAARP was supposed to have been shut down, and now all of a sudden, they are giving a notice to airmen not to fly over the facility because they are going to be doing electromagnetic experiments, and now we have a heat wave in the northwestern United States. In the meantime, where I am, we are being soaked with rain.

It’s a very easy matter to steer the weather. You create low pressure systems in the ionosphere in a particular area, and that will steer the weather and steer the Jetstream. It’s easy to do.

Fitts: I understand nothing about the science, but I know the patterns that I deal with as a financial matter.

You know the story of the Indonesia tsunami. Whatever is going on on this planet, it's much stranger than what they told me in civics class.

Farrell: I don't remember anything from my civics class either.

Fitts: It's ironic. When I was in the civics class, Lyndon Johnson was screaming about, "He who controls the weather controls the world." He was bragging about it.

My favorite one was when the Chinese came out during the Olympics and said, "There will be no weather problems." They had already established a Beijing weather modification office.

When I first told Skidmore about it, he said, "No!" He thought I was making it up.

I said, "I'm telling you that they have an office. They publish their plans."

Farrell: They've come right out and announced they are planning to turn all of Tibet into a weather modification region.

Fitts: That is the amazing thing about reading the Chinese plans. They are remarkably honest about many things. When you are organizing 1.3 billion people, there is some level of secrecy that you cannot tolerate.

I don't know anything else to say about the Debt Spiral & Inflation. I keep encouraging subscribers to do everything they can to improve their resiliency and lower their susceptibility to inflation. Anything they can do to lower their overhead and do more for themselves protects them against inflation. Anything they can do to live in a low-cost area helps.

In California, people used to say, "Why do you want to live in Hickory Valley, Tennessee?" Now everybody is calling and asking, "How can I buy property in Hickory Valley, Tennessee?"

Farrell: Yes. The other important thing is to lower your dependence on government.

Fitts: Yes, whatever you can do.

Have I told you about ‘Cash Friday’ yet?

Farrell: No.

Fitts: I’m absolutely convinced that whatever we need to do, we need to stop an all-digital financial system because it gives complete control. So, I went to Switzerland recently and met with the Children’s Health Defense people. Mary Holland is a very capable lawyer. She is the Vice-Chairman, and runs the operations. They are doing amazing amounts of litigation and gave us a briefing.

I was saying, “We have to stop the passports,” because WHO backed down and changed their website to say, “Children under 18 shouldn’t get the COVID-19 vaccination.”

That lasted for exactly a day. Then somebody ‘hit them over the head’, and they changed their website again. In the back and forth on that, the people who I was meeting with were hopeful that things would slow down and stop the mandates. What I said to them is, “If these guys get the passports and the financial controls, they can and will do anything they want. And you’re talking about a vaccine every six months to every month.”

“You are going to be on the vaccine/transhumanism treadmill. If you want to stop vaccine mandates, you have to stop an all-digital financial system”.

We were brainstorming about how to do that, and Mary Holland said one of the most brilliant things I’ve ever heard. I said, “We need to get people to use cash.” I don’t know if you know this, but cash is going up, not down. People are smart.

I think that part of this inflation talk, and newspapers carrying inflation stories is to encourage people to lower their cash positions. I’ve been saying, “No, don’t fall into that. Don’t worry about the debasement of the currency.”

Mary said, “Well, what about Cash Friday?”

I said, “What a genius idea!”

So, we have a team member working on this, and we’re evaluating it so we can launch it – hopefully soon. The idea is this: The next day was Friday. We were driving home from Locarno and stopped for dinner. I paid in cash. Each one of my receipts I’m numbering, and I’m going to post them.

I’m paying in cash. The idea is that you pay all cash on Friday, and then if for some reason you have to do something digitally, you remember that and make up for it another day of the week. I suppose that if we can all do one day a week, that could be huge with the amount of increased cash it could generate.

Farrell: I’ve tried to use cash in any grocery store or haircut and all of that; I try to use cash whenever I can.

I’m not saying that I don’t use my debit card for certain things that I have to purchase online, but I’ve gone as much as possible to cash transactions wherever I can. One reason I do that is I don’t like being tracked; I don’t like my purchases being tracked.

Cash gives you the anonymity. No matter how debased the currency may be, it’s still currency, and it still allows you to transact privately.

Fitts. We asked Corey Lynn of Corey’s Digs to write up for us a series on the passports. She just published the first one, and it shows you state by state what the passport rules are, and then country by country what the passport rules are. It’s rather serious.

She is finding that all of the states that are passing laws that say ‘no passports’ have ‘Swiss cheese’; they have major holes in them. So, these people are sneaking up on us. When they throw the trap, use cash on Friday. Use cash as much as you possibly can.

Story #3: Rollerball: Reinventing the Corporate Model.

This is one of the funniest things that is going on on the planet, and I’ve written plenty about it. I did the article, Can ESG Turn the Red Button Green? What we are watching is an effort. If you are the central banks, and want an all-digital financial system, and want to basically destroy or completely take over the sovereign governments, the question is: How do you get people to go along with taxation without representation and agree for all governmental functions to be run by private corporations that are run by billionaires who behave like Jamie Dimon (CEO of JP Morgan)?

The question is actually: How do you get them to go along with all of this? Part of it is trying to make corporations look attractive under mind control. So, they are trying to reinvent the corporate model, and it's one of the ugliest things I've ever seen. Not only do you have to ignore science, but you have to ignore financial facts, you have to ignore human nature, and this is like a neon fantasyland.

Farrell: It is, and it goes back to something that I mentioned years ago now in these Wrap Ups. I also mentioned it on my friend, the late GeorgeAnn Hughes' show. Show me a corporate charter that has as part of its corporate charter recognition of the Bill of Rights. None do.

I'm of the opinion that we have to look at law and the behavior of these corporations and require – grandfathered in – that corporations abide by the Constitutional provisions of those first Ten Amendments. Otherwise, their charter is revoked. And if the charter is revoked, that means that individuals in those corporations can be held accountable before the law.

Going back to the Middle Ages, oftentimes the corporate charter would include provisions like that so if a corporation acted out of the cultural matrix of morality, the individual officers of the corporation could be held accountable. So, you literally had cases of people being put to death for things that they had done in the name of a corporation, and the corporation was disbanded.

We need to look at this very, very carefully.

Fitts: One of the thing that the state legislatures are going to face is whether or not they will revoke the ability for a company to operate within that state.

Farrell: Right, and it needs to be done because these corporations are out of control. They are taking unto themselves a sovereignty that they have not been granted in their corporate charter. We need to look at the ‘whole nine yards’ in law.

Fitts: Think about this: Humans can be put to death, but corporations aren’t being put to death. So they are above the law.

Farrell: Right. How do you kill a persona ficta (a proxy charged with powers to act) in law? Ultimately, you can’t. This goes back to medieval debates in cannon law and so on.

If you have a corporate charter and are creating a corporate person, but that person in that charter is not liable to live under the Constitutional provisions, then no charter.

I do agree that state legislatures will have to step up. We are seeing the pushback with these bullion depositories and these state nullification laws and so on, but they are going to have to look very hard at the corporate law.

Fitts: Here is the problem with any state legislature right now: If you look at who manages their pension funds, who manages the money at the school boards, who sell their bonds, who does the servicing on all of their bond servicing, and if you look at who has their deposits and corresponded banking, they are relying on all of the people who are destroying us. At some point, you will have to fire JP Morgan Chase from your bank accounts, and you will have to revoke their ability to do business in that state.

Farrell: And you are going to have to find someone else to underwrite your bonds. This is common sense. You said ‘Rollerball’. This is exactly the feeling that I get from the modern corporations – that old movie, Rollerball; it’s chaos.

I think you are eventually going to see that happen in states because the state pushback just came out of nowhere in the last two years. It has mushroomed beyond any recognition or any expectation that I had for it. So, I think eventually you will see some states start doing this. I certainly hope they do.

Fitts: The great thing about this is that I’ve never seen a state legislature where you didn't have people who were experienced at the nuts and bolts of government, including government money. If you get a significant number of them mad enough, they know how to turn the dial; they know how to engineer this.

Farrell: It's will have to. Pertaining to these states that are doing all these nullification laws, the thing that I hope will happen is they get together and discuss these kinds of nuts and bolts operations. You are right; they need to get out of the big banks. They need to have different people underwriting their bonds, and so on.

Fitts: . They are deep in the money.

We touched on this before, but if you thought the hypocrisy was bad on the 'plandemic', Story #4 is worse.

Story #4: Crypto and Blockchain: Climate Change and ESG Used to Force Retail onto the Electrical Grid

I've never seen more lies than the lies necessary to build, what is called, the 'smart grid'. You are trying to get an all electrical system at the retail level. With CBDC and home appliances on the grid, you have complete control. You can turn off people's money, you can turn off their energy, and you can micromanage them both as surveillance and enforcement. You can do it all with AI and software. It's frightening.

Farrell: You saw that happen during the Texas power outages last February. Smart meters were turning off people's power.

Rather than building redundancy into the system as it is, they are pushing this digital thing, and that is an agenda. That should tell people immediately that this is an agenda. There would be no reason for Texas to have suffered that if they had built some redundancy into their electrical system.

Fitts: Texas was always famous for having an independent system and building in that kind of redundancy, and you wonder what happened.

Part of this is ESG. Are you familiar with the ESG system?

Farrell: No.

Fitts: ESG stands for Environmental, Social, and Governance. The reason I know all about this is that I do a screen that everybody insists on calling an ESG screen because we all have to be in a box. So if you are classical, you have to be in that box, if you are rock-n-roll, you have to be in that box.

So, it is looking for companies that are fundamentally productive.

Farrell: I have to throw out my Jethro Tull albums? No, I know what you're saying.

Fitts: The question is: How is it applied? This thing started about 20 years ago. I completely ignored it for many years, but I finally came to realize that we have to vote with our money. Maybe ten years ago, I had a new client come to see me. She had a bond fund that was with a very well-known ESG money manager. I looked at the prospectus, and many times these managers have mega-prospectuses and all of their funds are in one big annual prospectus.

Right next to where her bond fund was - the disclosure for the fund that I had to do due diligence on - was their fund for companies that are good for women. I thought, "Okay, I'll fall for this. I'll look at what an ESG fund that is good for women would look like."

If you had said to me, "What are the ten companies that do the most harm to women in the corporate world,"-that was their top ten holdings.

I read the criteria, and it turned out that basically the criteria called for hiring gay women from Harvard. If you hired gay women from Harvard, then you fit the requirements, and you can run around the world killing women and their children as much as you want.

We are seeing ESG and climate change used as the air cover for building a prison planet, for building a slavery system, and for building the infrastructure of control. It is right out of the movie, They Live. The hubris of it is so incredible.

Farrell: The hubris and the lies both. They are lying about everything in order to make all of this look attractive. That is the problem that we are facing – how to penetrate the lies and get people to wake up and see that this has all been a con.

I think they have overplayed their hand with the COVID plan/'scamdemic'. The lies are so blatant.

Fitts: My favorite one is meeting these people who are so excited about reducing our carbon footprint, and then they start to tell you about crypto. The next thing you know, you present them with the fact that bitcoin uses more energy than Germany.

It's like watching the cherries spin at Las Vegas.

Farrell: And it's true.

Fitts: I know! I wanted to have this as Story #4 because this is something that we need to keep an eye on.

Glenn Beck did a discussion in the 1st or 2nd quarter where he talked about the fact that the brokerage firms are now raiding your portfolios for ESG. I can see the day coming where, if you don't buy Microsoft, you will get punished in your social credit scoring because Microsoft hires gay women from Harvard. So there you go.

I apologize to all the gay women from Harvard. You are wonderful, but that is not the criteria.

So, this is something to keep an eye on because now that COVID-19 is wearing thin, the climate change and ESG is off the charts. For all I know, I don't comprehend how they are going to mix up climate change, ESG, and aliens, but I'm sure they will find a way.

Farrell: We've already covered it.

Fitts: I'm going to do a little screen share and show you that we have two more stories in the Economy part. We took up six for Economy & Financial Markets because what is happening right now is so driven by the economic.

Story #5: Going Direct Reset: Engineering Financial Digital Control with Health Mandates and Passports

So, let's talk about the health mandates and passports. I have to tell you that I continue to be totally shocked by how many people don't see the connection.

Farrell: I'm surprised too. They really don't see it. Part of it is that I think we have been so indoctrinated by the school system for the last 100 years to think in little compartmental areas of knowledge so that we are taught as a society, "Don't make any connections between what is going on over here and what is going on over there."

It's clear to me that you cannot explain this COVID plan/'scamdemic' without looking at the Bill Gates and the Anthony Fauci's and the Charles Liebers and all the murky corporate connections between them, as well as their own words about what they want to accomplish. This is not about science. This is not about health; this is about a governance system, and it's about finance.

Fitts: And it's about control.

Farrell: Nothing more. They are trying to maneuver the situation now so that you are on a constant treadmill of vaccination updates and booster shots, and you are going to be 'sick as a dog' and tired. We are already getting reports from people who have received these mRNA 'quackcines' of their lethargy, their strange behavior, and managers who have received the vaccine who are not interested in managing anymore. I'm hearing more and more of these stories. So it's about control.

Fitts: I'm getting wide reports on what the adverse reactions are. Among the people I personally know and see every day or often who have taken these shots, two of them are perfectly fine – no change. It's as though they got saline shots. And one of the people is a totally different person in a way that is really frightening.

I'll tell you the thing that bothers me the most, and I know this is happening to you, too: I am getting wildly different reports from rich neighborhoods and rich countries versus poor neighborhoods and poor countries. I don't think it's their general health. I just can't believe that everybody is getting the same shot.

Farrell: I am going to do the doff of the hat on that one because I've suspected the same thing. We are dealing with 'quackcines' that we're not really sure what the ingredients are.

Fitts: We do not know.

Farrell: So, are the people getting these 'quackcines' getting the same thing? If they take the Pfizer vaccine, who is to say that batch #x is the same as batch #y. We don't know. There is no control group other than the people who haven't gotten any vaccine at all. That is the control group.

I suspect the same thing. There is so much 'monkey business' going on here. If you think that hypothesis or that speculation is out there, go back and do the due diligence research on the tests for this. Are the tests really testing for the same thing? Did they really isolate a virus?

You will discover that from top to bottom this has been one narrative that, at each level, has been lied about. So, I don't put anything past these people. I agree with you. I think that is a real possibility.

Fitts: It is shocking to me to see the variation in reports. I hate to say this, but I remember when I used to warn wealthy people about the CIA narcotics trafficking. I came to realize that they believed the reason the poor neighborhoods were having all these problems was that they weren't disciplined, hard-working, and didn't raise their children right. There was a certain sense of superiority.

So, when wealthy neighborhoods are having few adverse events but many people are dying and having adverse events in the poorer neighborhoods, the wealthy neighborhoods are going to assume, "Oh, well that is because I take better care of myself and I eat properly.” Do you see what I mean? It’s going to lull them into going along.

Farrell: I think that what you are trying to say – and what I want to say in this respect – was that if you look at the different types of adverse reactions that are out there, we do know that some of these vaccines are causing clotting issues, and those vaccines are not mRNA vaccines.

I’m looking at the adverse reactions in this vast catalog of different reactions to these things, and I think that those adverse reactions are the result of a specific type of injection. In other words, I am using the adverse reactions to argue your thesis that maybe they are getting different kinds of injections and they are not telling us.

I don’t put anything past them.

Fitts: Here is the thing: When these people do something this big, they stack functions and they prototype.

Farrell: That is exactly what I think is going on here.

Fitts: Here is the thing: The feedback that I get back from the doctors who I really respect is that the number one thing killing people is fear. Fear is causing so many problems. I listen to a reporter in the U.K. named Jacqui Deevoy who did an incredible story on the NHS euthanizing people. That’s how they got their equivalent of Andrew Cuomo’s nursing home stuff. The NHS was killing all these elderly people.

People would get a call on Thursday, “Your father is going to die on Saturday night at midnight. You need to come in.” Then they would give him the shot, and he would die. That is why Matt Hancock just resigned; that is what the U.K. health minister resignation was all about.

If you look at what I keep hearing from the medical professionals, the reason the elderly get in a susceptible situation like that is they get afraid. The next thing they know, they are running into the hospital. Then they are talked into taking this drug and that drug. After 20 of those drugs, they can finally get them onto a ventilator, and then they have a 98% chance of being dead – let alone of giving them the euthanasia shot.

Farrell: I don't blame them! I have suffered tendonitis in my right little finger recently. I was originally thinking, "I need to go to a doctor and have him look at it." Then I thought, "No! Why would I do that?"

Fitts: Do you know what saved my life during the litigation? I could never go to the doctor or the hospital. So I would pray, and then I would read about all the old-time recipes, and would try them.

I can't tell you how many recipes I tried, completely committed to the notion that this was ridiculous and would never work. Then it worked, and I was like, "Holy cow!"

So, it took plenty of violence and fear to get me to let go of the system. I discovered that you are much healthier if you don't go to the doctor.

What can we do to help people 'connect the dots'? I'm hoping that 'Cash Friday' can help them connect the dots, and I'm hoping that if you are in a big bank, you will please move to a local bank, a community bank, or a credit union. Please!

How do we help them 'connect the dots' between health mandates and passports and the financial system?

Farrell: Believe it or not, I think there is a ready-made answer to that, and that is Obamacare and the mandate. It caused plenty of grief, and it's still causing a considerable amount of grief in the country.

I just want to point out: Why would they want to mandate that you have to get this kind of thing unless they were planning something else down the line with mandated vaccines?

In other words, they have created the precedent that you can only receive Federal government healthcare if you are vaccinated. That's another agenda.

I think that tying it in that way, especially to people in this country – I can't speak about Europe – will make much more sense. There are still many people opposed to that. I am; it has absolutely soaked me financially.

Fitts: I had a great relative who was in Massachusetts when they did a type of Obamacare there first.

Farrell: Thank you, Mitt Romney.

Fitts: They said to me, "Oh, I can tell you how this is going to work. I used to spend $2,500 a year on healthcare. Now instead of getting $2,500 of healthcare, I pay $2,500 for insurance and don't get any healthcare. That is how this works."

Story #6: Danger Ahead – $650 Billion SDRS & a Tsunami of Evil

We are already feeling the effects of this. I told everybody that this was going to be a financial tsunami.

Farrell: I don't even know what to say; I'm speechless.

Fitts: $650 billion is a large amount of money! The IMF (International Monetary Fund) has gotten an authorization of $650 billion, and they are now making loans around the world to buy everybody into the digital ID and the vaccination policies. And I'll tell you who is to blame here: It's because the Republicans lost the Senate. If the Republicans hadn't lost the Senate, this wouldn't be happening.

It's so amazing because I can't tell you how many people I know who said, "I got the vaccination so I could travel," and had the travel canceled. "Even if you're vaccinated, you can't go there." This has happened several times with friends who couldn't go because it was locked down after they got their IMF loan.

Farrell: And look at what they are doing. You have the story, France's Macron Urges G-7 to Sell Gold Reserves to Fund Bailout for Africa. In other words, they are wanting to buy Africa and continue all of their experiments there. It's so 'in-your-face'.

Fitts: The other thing is they want the central banks to be able to get control of the gold. Part of getting rid of sovereignty is shifting the gold out of the sovereign governments and back to the central banks.

So that's it for Economy & Financial Markets. I don't know if you realize this, but we rebuilt the Silver & Gold Payment Calculator. It's up, it's working, it's launched, and we have two phone apps that should be out shortly.

It was a big job in the 2nd quarter to rebuild this. We had a great team in India to do it with us. We had it, but then it was magically 'slaughtered'. So we rebuilt it from scratch, and I think it's even more global than it was. It can work anywhere in the world, but essentially, the fast way to start a community currency is to get together. You don't have to create a new organization; you don't have to create a fiat currency; you don't need systems; you don't need anything. You only need a critical mass of people who are going to do it. You can take your gold, your silver, your local coins and your cash, and just do it.

Farrell: And buy things with it.

Fitts: Exactly, just do it.

Farrell: I still think that the more they clamp down and try to put this digital system into place, the more that sort of thing is going to happen, inevitably.

Fitts: I hope so.

Farrell: I really think it's inevitable. There are too many people who are not the 'high and the mighty' who will resort to barter and any other thing needed to be able to transact. In other words, Mr. 'Globaloney' is, once again, cutting his own throat because he is stupid.

Fitts: I do not understand Mr. Global at all; I never have. Maybe I never will, but I don't know. I keep trying to understand what his point of view is. I always try to put myself in the other fellow's shoes and look at things from their point of view, but I don't see their point of view on this one.

I said ‘$650 Billion SDRS (Special Drawing Rights-International Monetary Fund) & a Tsunami of Evil’ only because the other thing that is hard for many people to fathom is the evil that the centralizers are capable of. They want to return us to slavery.

One of my questions on the infertility is: Now that they have CRISPR (Clustered Regularly Interspaced Short Palindromic Repeats) technology, do they want to say that the only babies that come into the world are those which are designer babies approved by Mr. Global?

In other words, Mr. Global controls the genetics, not the parents or nature.

Farrell: I think that is one of the games. A certain segment of Mr. ‘Globaloney’ believes that they have to get off-planet, and they are buying this narrative that in order to do so, they have to fundamentally change humanity itself in order to go and do whatever it is that they want to do out there.

Fitts: But is that just a spin, or do you think that’s real?

Farrell: I think it’s a little of both. It’s mostly spin for this reason: We’ve been putting people up in space for decades now, and the way we’ve been doing it is creating the human environment that you can take with you rather than modifying the human being itself.

In other words, I think that most of it is spin. It’s just another way to drive the technocratic narrative – that we have to tinker with humanity and ‘improve’ humanity. Every improvement that they are suggesting is – as far as I can tell – noticeably an ‘improvement’ for everybody else but them.

Fitts: Here is the thing: If you look at what they are doing, whether it’s with neuro-weaponry or transhumanism or this game around transgender, on one hand, they are pretending that the electromagnetic body and the soul and consciousness are not real. On the other hand, if you look at what they are trying to do with epigenetics, they are saying, “By manipulating your electromagnetic field, we can change your physical body.” So, they know that the field is important.

One of the theories about the injections is that the toxicity attacks the pineal gland. It's very strange. The spike protein goes into the blood-brain barrier, even though the coronavirus doesn't. So, they go in the vascular system and rip up the walls, and then go into the brain. They don't go into the lungs, which is where SARS CoV-2 goes.

Farrell: Let me 'light' my anti-COVID 'stick' here.

Fitts: As you pointed out, people who smoke get COVID less.

Farrell: It's not only that, but GeorgeAnn Hughes and I had this conversation years and years ago when she was still alive and had her show. She was a smoker and I'm a smoker. We both wondered why our government was so absolutely dead-set against smoking. One thing she found was a paper that smoking somehow protects the pineal gland.

Fitts: Really? Wow! You never told me that!

Farrell: I said, "That doesn't surprise me! They don't want people in touch with themselves."

Fitts: That's amazing!

Farrell: I don't remember what the paper was or even where she found it, but it is one of those things. Any time the government is so dead-set against something, I have to wonder, "What is the benefit that we're not supposed to have here?"

Fitts: That's amazing because if you look at all the things they have done to basically destroy our pineal glands, wow! You have to hang out with Farrell because it's amazing what you will learn!

Geopolitics:

Before we dive in to Story #7, I want to give an overview. You've been on The Solari Report and talked about Nazi International. We've certainly talked about what is going on in Antarctica. Almost every day during the 2nd quarter, I hear Leonard Cohen's song in my mind saying, "First we take Manhattan, and then we take Berlin."

You definitely get the feeling that whoever is on the dark side of the moon, and whoever is in Antarctica is returning to overt control. Does that make sense? It definitely has an international Nazi feel to it.

Farrell: It has an international fascist feel to it. I know that by standard analysis, that's an oxymoron, but look at communist China. I think communist China is an essentially fascist state rather than a communist state. They are all about exporting the Chinese version of communism; it's nothing but fascism.

I get this all the time from people, "How can you say it's fascist? It looks more Marxist, especially under the current administration."

Well, if you 'dig and scratch' long enough, you're going to find out that it looks much more like fascism.

Fitts: Weren't Marxists just economic hitmen who worked for fascists?

Farrell: Precisely. Let's go back to the fact that Wall Street basically put the Bolsheviks into power and put Hitler into power and put Roosevelt into power. So, you have big corporations here; it's corporate socialism. It's mercantilism dressed up and made shiny and lovely for the 20th century, but it's the same old mercantilism.

I am at a loss on how to explain this to people. I've tried and tried and tried. It has the fascist feel to it.

We have cameras on every stoplight corner in the country now. What does that tell you? It speaks of fascism. "Be good little boys and girls and you'll get your universal income check."

Fitts: Here is the thing: We know Byrd got his head handed to him when he went to Antarctica, so there was some kind of superior military capability.

Farrell: There was something down there!

Fitts: The winner of World War II couldn't beat it. That is very significant. That was in 1948 – Operation Highjump.

Farrell: That was planned in 1946 and launched in 1947. Incidentally, it was planned by James Forrestal and Fleet Admiral Chester Nimitz.

Fitts: If I could go back and turn the hand of time, I would show up at Walter Reed Hospital and stop that assassination.

What we are watching is a global governance structure ordering 190+ countries to either do things to their population, which are frightening in all of the ways we've talked about, and no one seems to have the ability to say 'no' – not the Chinese, not the Russians, not the Americans. So, we are talking about some kind of unbelievable power. The question is: Where is that power coming from?

It could be interdimensional. I don't underestimate that. But somebody does have those spaceships flying around.

Farrell: There has to be a power structure in order for all of this to be coordinated, and there has to be a power structure in order to force countries that are relatively powerful to go along with it. In other words, that power structure is very real – whatever you want to call it. It has to have humans who are cognizant and aware of that power structure because they are willing agents of it.

Whether you want to call it Fascist International or Marxism or Mr. 'Globaloney', I don't care; it's there.

Fitts: But I do think that whoever it is has developed a separate civilization. We are dealing with a separate civilization that is co-located on Earth, and it has technology well beyond anything that our general population can even fathom.

Farrell: I think so, too. It's necessary to call it a civilization because that implies the cosmology; it has a culture and a 'morality' that it is living by. That is why it is so inexplicable to most people.

I would assert that that cosmology is entirely materialistic and dualistic, as well.

Fitts: One way to think about it is the Breakaway Civilization is breaking in.

I'll read the last four stories in Geopolitics before we get into them:

Story #7: Crossing the Wall: Central Banks Take Over the Treasuries and Fiscal Policy.

Story #8: The G7 Friction: Globalizing Taxation without Representation.

Story #9: The Great Poisoning Accelerates.

Story #10: The Multipolar World Emerges.

Let's start with Story #7: Crossing the Wall: Central Banks Take Over the Treasuries and Fiscal Policy.

I think this is so big, and this is all part of explaining that the Going Direct is 'driving the train'. And yet trying to explain this to people who haven't spent much time studying government and politics, I'm struggling with this. I just never give up.

This is so big.

Farrell: It's hard to communicate to people that what they've known or assumed as government really isn't, and that it's the central banksters who are the government. I always tell people, "If you doubt, go read the opening words of David Rockefeller's memoirs." He actually says that the governance structure of the world needs to be in the hands of corporate people and bankers. Then he continues to say, "If this be treason, I freely confess it," or something to that effect.

In other words, he is saying, "I am all for this, and this is my goal. This is what all of my foundations and all of my machinations and all of my connections have really been about.” He comes right out and says it.

Don’t doubt it, and he has the power to do it.

Fitts: If you read David Talbot’s book, he is the person (Rockefeller) who financed the bullet on the Kennedy assassination. Everybody has a theory on why Rockefeller and the Rockefeller syndicate had Kennedy killed, and why everybody went along with it. I don’t think it was one reason; I think he was afraid that Kennedy was changing the model, and they truly believed that it was the wrong decision.

Farrell: The way I view Kennedy increasingly is that he was like Donald Trump, but with one exception: He came into office knowing that, and he was very shrewd. His appointments in particular were very shrewd.

Fitts: He made his brother Secretary of State.

Farrell: He made his brother in charge of the DOJ.

Fitts: That was a very smart decision.

Farrell: Very, very smart.

Fitts: Do you remember how upset everybody was when he did it? There was plenty of pushback.

Farrell: I know, but it was the shrewdest thing that he did. That one move is what tells me that he knew exactly what the power centers were and what he needed to get control of. Unlike Trump, he was bringing in a network of people with him that he could rely on that would be loyal. Even then, we know what happened.

Fitts: The Kennedy people at that time were good at government. They knew the nuts and bolts and the mechanisms of government. You had all those democratic city machines, and they knew how to pull the levers.

Farrell: The other thing that he did that indicates that he knew very good and well what he had to do was an executive order he signed in June of 1963 to create $4 billion of United States notes and bypass the Federal Reserve altogether.

Fitts: He wasn't going to let them put him in a corner. If there was anything that I could do to go back in history and listen in, I would have loved to have listened to Eisenhower briefing Kennedy on his way out.

I have a picture of Kennedy in April of 1963 visiting Forrestal's grave. He was at Arlington for another reason, and then impromptu asked to visit Forrestal's grave. That picture really touched my heart because he was a Forrestal protégé. So, between what Forrestal had taught him and what Eisenhower taught him, he understood the problems that we were truly facing in a way that none of us can. We are still trying to figure out what they knew.

Let me repeat this: For over 100 years, we've had a balance of power. The private owners of the central banks control monetary policy, and the voters and elected representatives supposedly control the tax flows and the tax-related credit.

The more you can get governments indebted, the more the central banks can control. What we've seen is a debt entrapment process where you've bankrupted the governments by issuing debt and sucking money out. This is the PROMIS (Patient-Reported Outcomes Measurement Information System) software story. It's the story of using the digital systems to 'bank rob' the sovereign government. So you put them in a debt trap, you steal the money, and the digital systems have allowed these people to move towards a system where now the central banks control both.

I don't know if you saw the latest stories about the calls that BlackRock was getting during the pandemic, but Secretary Mnuchin is calling Larry Fink (CEO of BlackRock) more than he's calling Trump.

So now the central bank and the private owners of the central bank are running both the government – which has no financial responsibility with FASAB 56 in the United States – and they are running the central banks, and all of this behind a wall of secrecy.

Another way of saying this is the hidden system of finance has basically tendered over and taken over the ‘whole shebang’. This is a major collapse of sovereign government.

Farrell: It’s a major collapse of sovereign government, and the way that I read it – and I know that this is going to sound very controversial – is it’s a collapse of the US dollar as being a US dollar.

Fitts: Right, it’s a global dollar.

Farrell: It’s a global corporate dollar.

Fitts: The question is: How are they going to evolve the new system using that global? I think that part of the reason we are getting this incredible overwhelming output from the shriek-o-meter is to paper this over.

Farrell: Yes, I agree. It’s a distraction, in a way, of getting everybody to look here while they are doing whatever they are going to do to roll out the system.

Fitts: One of my favorite examples from the 2nd quarter I got from Bobby Kennedy’s speech, and then I searched and found the estimate. It is estimated that since March 2020, 60% of the African American businesses in America have been put out of business. Sixty percent! And Black Lives Matter ended the year with $80 million in cash reserves.

Who says the central banks can’t give money away?

This is what is kicking up inflation because we are talking about quantitative easing that is injecting money directly into the economy. I think the private equity firms are just ‘rolling in dough’. It’s like those global sweepstakes with ladies using shopping carts running around the supermarket getting as much as they can get in five or ten minutes, and the one who gets the most wins the game.

Farrell: Look at what happened to Weimar Germany during their hyperinflation when they were running the printing presses. People were resorting to barter. Look at what Nazi Germany did after Hitler took power and took Germany off a fiat monetized debt system of money and was creating debt-free money.

The bankers tried to suspend trade with Germany. What Germany did was exactly what the Chinese are doing: It started making bilateral barter agreements with all the countries in Eastern Europe.

I am bringing up this example to point out to people that for Mr. 'Globaloney's' scheme to work, they have to get everybody on board. The fact of the matter is that not everybody is on board, nor will they be.

Fitts: What is interesting is that they keep acting as though they have everybody on board.

Farrell: Right, they're acting.

Fitts: They're going 'full steam ahead', and I'm not going to say that this will get very messy because this is really messy now.

Farrell: It's really messy now, and it looks like their game is they really want to try to implement this system in one portion of the world and make it look wonderful for everybody to get them all on board, but I don't think that is going to work.

Fitts: It may be possible that mind control can do it. I don't know.

Farrell: Maybe, but they are going to have to do it with many people.

It's human nature to want to be in control. Mr. 'Globaloney' is primarily an Anglo-American phenomenon. You can't tell me that they will get the Chinese Politburo to say, "Yeah, we are going to let you guys run the show." That 'ain't going to happen!

Fitts: If you look at the investment that these people poured into China and the free intellectual capital, they are the ones who are enabling China.

Farrell: That's like thinking you are going to get a good deal with a pit of vipers. It just isn't going to happen.

Fitts: I still don't understand the approach to China.

Story #8: The G7 Friction: Globalizing Taxation without Representation.

If the central banks take over fiscal policy, I think they want to be able to go into your bank account and take the taxes whether you like it or not. So, we are talking about taxation without representation, which is a violation of every legal value in the entire American experiment.

So, how is this supposed to work?

Farrell: It's not going to. I really don't see it working.

Let's assume for a moment that they manage to get their digital currency and their social credit system all in place in this country right now. Do you think that everybody in this country is going to be happy with that? Probably not. You will have millions of people who are going to be unhappy, and they are going to find workarounds of the system, and they will start 'gaming that system' for all it's worth. So, I just don't see how it's going to work.

Fitts: I'm not travelling around the United States right now, and I don't know, but what I see are three groups in most populations. I see a group who is prepared to face what is really happening and deal with it. Those include your members and my subscribers. So, the Giza Deathstar members are prepared to face what is happening and deal with it.

Then you have a group of people on the other side who are completely lost in a trance. Part of it is, if you look at what has been happening to them physically with the great poisoning, which we will talk about later, they've literally lost their ability to function mentally. They depend on their TV set for a manufactured reality, and they need a manufactured reality. They cannot think independently of the manufactured reality they're given.

So, think of them as being in the Borg. When the World Economic Forum says, “It’s 2030. You have no assets, and you’re happy,” that is somebody who is going to be in the Borg.

Then you have a group who knows something is wrong, but they have to put food on their children’s table. They don’t have time. They certainly don’t understand, but they are prepared to follow people around who they think do understand.

One of the things that I believe is if we can help the people who are facing reality and support them with tools and intellectual weapons and financial weapons, they can start to lead, and the others will follow. That is part of the great opportunity because I can’t tell you how exciting it is – this has happened to me and it’s happened to you, but I’m now watching it happen to other people – to see people who are finally realizing, “You know something? I’ve had it. I don’t care about the prestige. I don’t care about the money. I just want to live a life of integrity, and I’m willing to walk out into the wilderness and start again from scratch because I would rather die in the wilderness than be part of this disgusting mess.”

It’s almost like a revulsion: “I will do anything to get away from these people.”

There are many stories in the 2nd Quarter that we didn’t cover because it’s just story after story of revolting behavior and revolting thinking and revolting culture. My attitude is, “Let’s talk about Leonardo da Vinci instead.”

Farrell: I don’t know if you heard the interview that I did with one of my members.

Fitts: Yes, it was fabulous! It was very exciting, and I want to talk about that.

Farrell: His name is Peter, and he is part of a group in Arizona that have targeted seven areas of action that they want to take – finance, food, and more in that little talk. But what is most interesting is that his statement to me about why he and these other people started doing this was precisely what you just said: it was the revulsion at the games that Mr. ‘Globaloney’ is playing with all of his cutouts and surrogates and so on. They are just tired of it, and they realize they can live their comfortable life, but will their children or their grandchildren? The answer is: Probably not unless they do something.

It's fine to have the revulsion; just make the revulsion a plan of action. That's all that is necessary. It doesn't have to be a flawless plan.

Fitts: They were so focused on the day-to-day practical things and working with people who wanted to do that without getting into all of this 'divide and conquer' stuff – just focusing on what actions we can take that will build personal resiliency and strength. It was fantastic.

Farrell: The other thing that we need to get out of our minds is we don't have to have a flawless masterplan; we just have to take action, and we will make mistakes. That is part of being human, and Mr. 'Globaloney' thinks they're not making any mistakes. Well, they are.

Fitts: Every day.

I don't think you've seen it yet, but I wrote in the introduction of the Going Direct Reset that if you look at the reset, it was started on August 22, 2019, and Jerome Powell (Chair of the Federal Reserve) was in the room voting for it. He had to have known that they were in the process of putting 500 million people out of work and out of income. Then the person who got the 'plandemic' really going was Andrew Cuomo. He was engineering 15,000 to 20,000 deaths; they basically murdered 15,000 to 20,000 people.

If you look at it, Powell murdered much more than Cuomo. How many people die when you put 500 million people out of work? These are both people I've personally worked with – not closely, but Powell was at Dillon Read and Cuomo was Secretary of HUD when Hamilton Securities was there.

One of the things that I think about is, "Why would a person be willing to do that?"

Farrell: There are two explanations: One is they are so enamored of their materialism that they have no sense of God or the transcendent and therefore, morality. If you have no morality, all you have left is policy; they are implementing policies. So, you are dealing with spiritual infants. These are people who have little to no soul, or who have long ago sold it for power.

Fitts: It looked like Cuomo thought he was going to get a cabinet position in the Biden Administration, and he was ‘freaked’ when he didn’t get it. If I had to guess, it looked like Kamala Harris had made the deal with him to get 15,000 dead, and then had reneged. He realized, just like the line in the movie, “You had been had, baby!”-he’d been had. Not only that, but he was in real danger because the families were coming after him. This was lawsuit time.

Farrell: They still are.

Fitts: The Department of Justice announced an investigation. The reason they have criminal investigations is that it stops all of the civil litigation. But how Cuomo is going to wiggle out of this, I don’t know.

Farrell: The bad thing is that Mr. ‘Globaloney’ has overplayed their hand, and sooner or later, the way that I’m reading them, they are thinking that they are in ‘pitchforks and ropes’ territory.

Fitts: Okay, but let’s take this further. If the general population realizes that we’ve had millions of people killed – basically assassinated – by government policy and dictum and euthanasia, as happened and has been proven in the U.K., let alone what it is that these injections do to us and how many people that it is killing, because it’s killing many people now. When that all gets realized, the logical place to take out your anger and frustration is on the sovereign governments, which plays right into the central bank’s hands.

In other words, the central banks have engineered government to kill people, and now the people will kill the governments for the central banks.

Farrell: That’s certainly a scenario, but I don’t think that will happen. I will be watching these states in this country start doing things in open defiance of the Federal government, but not bypassing their state government responsibilities. I think that will grow.

It really began under Obama, and we saw it continuing under Trump with the sanctuary cities and so on with the weakness of the Federal government. Well, it's certainly one of the weakest Federal governments that we've had right now in the current Administration, and you are seeing all of this pushback. I think that is only going to grow.

What happens as a result of it, I am in no position to predict, but you are getting this pushback. It's not only limited to this country; it's going on virtually in every major country in the West right now in some form or fashion. I don't see that Mr. 'Globaloney's' control is lockdown tight as Mr. 'Globaloney' would like it to be. He has lost the population, which is the problem. Even in the scenario that going after sovereign governments might play into Mr. 'Globaloney's' hands, the problem is the people doing that, he doesn't have total control over; that's the problem.

They've 'painted themselves into a corner'. That is the way I look at it. It's because of that they are increasingly insane, and they are scrambling. They are starting fights with Russia and sending British frigates into Russian territory waters. According to the news that I recently read, that came directly from Boris Johnson. There is a story out there saying he ordered that.

Whether he did or not is beside the point. If they are that desperate, they are insane, and are going to make huge mistakes. That will cost them.

Fitts: We have a group of local merchants in Baltimore who have announced that they are going to put their tax money into escrow because the municipalities have defunded the police. So, they are not going to pay their taxes. It's a fluid situation. We don't know how will turn out.

This will happen in every one of our lives with our local taxes, our state taxes, and our Federal taxes. There is no hope in a situation where you are paying your enemy to kill you.

Farrell: I am foursquare in agreement with you; this is will spread.

Fitts: And the place it's going to hit with a passion in August is the schools. We are paying real estate taxes to fund the schools, by and large, depending on which country you're in. So, the taxpayer is funding the schools, and the schools are essentially killing the children.

Farrell: One way or another, it will spread.

Fitts: The one thing that I can say for Auschwitz is that Auschwitz did not tax its prisoners to pay for the running. They used them as slave labor, but they didn't tax them.

Every one listening or reading this – no matter what country we live in and no matter where we live – we have a taxation without representation problem, and we are going to have to deal with it. It will hit on the schools.

Story #9: The Great Poisoning Accelerates.

You and I have talked much about the Great Poisoning. The Great Poisoning is the many different things, from the spraying and the GMO's, to all the other things they are doing that are causing us to be swimming in a sea of environmental pollution, which is making our bodies toxic. The injections are just the next assault.

Part of the taxation without representation is that we are paying taxes to these governments, and the governments are literally poisoning us; they are physically poisoning us.

I think that one of the hardest things that I had to do on The Solari Report was to persuade people that this is true, and it's not an accident and it's not some giant complicated mistake. For the first time in my life, I'm witnessing people saying, "Wait a minute."

Farrell: How can it not be a deliberate act when now they are so desperate to get people to take the 'jab'? In California, they are having lotteries. In some other states, they are giving away money just to get your free vaccine. That should tell people all they need to know right there.

If they are willing to pay you for this vaccine, why didn't they pay people to take the polio vaccine, the salt vaccine, the Sabin vaccine, and so on? Why didn't they pay for the previous flu vaccines when SARS was a big thing a few years ago? Why now?

Well, we have a new kind of ‘quackcine’ on the market that they very desperately want people to take. I listen to a lot of local talk radio. They are completely ignoring all of the other therapies available for this – Ivermectin, hydroxychloroquine, and on and on we could go. There’s not a peep out of any major media outlet about any of these therapies, but it’s there.

So the question is: Follow the science, but whose science? Dr. Fauci’s? Dr. Tenpenny’s? Whose science are we to follow? That’s all people need to know. Just look at these insidious vaccine lotteries, and you know what the game is.

Fitts: It’s very gruesome to face the experimentation that is underway. I did a book review on irreversible damage, and I’ve talked to you about it before. It’s a book by Abigail Shrier about encouraging teenagers to become transgender. It’s clear that they are doing this. I’m sure they’re using entrainment technology on the smartphones and through the media. They’re doing it because they want bodies to experiment with; it’s only experimentation.

Farrell: It is, that’s all it is. If this government can do it to the Tuskegee Airmen, they can do it to anybody.

Fitts: And they do.

Here’s the thing: The action that everyone needs to know about is that there is a Great Poisoning underway, and the good news is, if you can face it and invest the time into taking care of yourself, it is amazing. The people who take the time to learn about health and learn about how to navigate this type of environment and who consciously take control of their healthcare, of their nutrition, and of everything, it’s amazing to see them.

We had a meeting with the Swiss subscribers, and it’s amazing to see person after person after person and what can happen over many years if you apply that intelligence.

As an investment advisor, I saw the families who knew how to navigate the Great Poisoning were healthy and well, and those who didn’t were killed by the system. It's frightening.

There is a great book about how to be your own doctor. That is what you have to be. You have to build it into your time budget, and figure out a way to make it fun; make it one of your habits.

There is a wide discrepancy of what your future will look like and what your life will look like if you invest the time and money to 'jump the curve' on the Great Poisoning.

You have to breathe the air, but most of this we can duck or avoid.

Story #10: The Multipolar World Emerges.

Well, I can only say that it certainly has.

Farrell: This is a sign that Mr. 'Globaloney' is not winning the multipolar world. When the Soviet Union collapsed, all the talk was of the unipolar world. They said, "The West has won," and there was the Rape of Russia and all that. Bad news: That didn't work.

The only thing Mr. 'Globaloney' succeeded in doing vis-à-vis Russia and the crackup of the Soviet Union is it made Russia stronger, in a certain sense. So, the multipolar world has this danger: The multipolar world is a return to the Peace of Westphalia (peace treaties of Osnabruck and Munster, Westphalia-1648).

Fitts: You think so?

Farrell: Yes, but without Westphalia's provisions. That is the codicil.

Fitts: It's the Peace of Westphalia with chaos.

Farrell: There is no similar structure in international law right now. The UN pretends to be, but it isn't.

Fitts: You know what part of their challenge is?: So many of the weapons are invisible. So, you have the one-way mirror and surveillance; you have neuroweapons; you have biological and chemical warfare; you have electromagnetic pulse and laser; you have whatever they're doing with mind control, and on and on it goes. It's all invisible.

Farrell: That's the reason they can't have the Peace of Westphalia. The other problem Mr. 'Globaloney' has is he doesn't have control of those things because no one believes that they exist, and they don't have control of the world media. This is a huge problem. They have control of the Western media, as we've seen with the plan/'scamdemic', but they don't have control over RT (Russian news channel), they don't have control over the Chinese, and they don't have control over Al Jazeera.

So, part of their toolkit for mind manipulation, they don't even have control over that.

Fitts: Here's the thing: If you look at the vaccination policies globally, somebody has global control.

Farrell: Somebody has enough influence to get these countries on board with the vaccine, but the problem is that you're not dealing with the same kind of vaccine even there. In Russia, you don't have an mRNA vaccine. The Chinese vaccine isn't an mRNA vaccine either. It's only the West that is pumping that 'crud' out.

That says to me that Mr. 'Globaloney's' control isn't as tight as he would like to think.

Fitts: That's what I can't figure out because there is definitely this codependency between the West and China, which are like two Siamese twins fighting. They are tied at the hip, but they're fighting. It's a very ambivalent thing.

At the very top of the Mr. Global structure, Mr. Global is the one who decided to lift China out of poverty and has poured investments there. This was desired.

Farrell: It was desired, but Mr. 'Globaloney' may have made the wrong bargain. I think it's clear from the time that Deng Xiaoping took over in China and accelerated that process, you can go back and look at what the Communist Chinese were saying under Chairman Deng, and it was, "Okay, bring it on. Bring all of your money, but don't expect us to roll over and play dead for you."

We are in a mafia war. That is the 'bottom line'.

Fitts: Let me bring up a couple of the geopolitical issues that we've discussed over the last couple of years. You and I were there on day one saying, "Q-Anon is hope porn."

We've lived with Q now for a long, long time, and you've certainly had plenty of time to reflect. Now we are in the part where it's being used as a trap to trap people as 'domestic terrorists'. It's very vicious what they are doing with it.

I'd love to know your thoughts on where Q is now.

Farrell: Q is 'in the same boat' that all the predictions of the rapture for the last 50 years is in.

Fitts: How do you have a last scene?

Farrell: Exactly! Obviously, none of those predictions happened. I'm including the ones like, "Trump is the real President, and he is going to be restored to office in March. Oh, make that April. No, make that May. Maybe August."

It's laughable. If nothing else demonstrates that it was a cult from the beginning, it's that phenomenon. They are still out there 'pumping out this bilge water'. All I can do is shake my head.

Fitts: I know highly educated, brilliant people who absolutely believe this.

Farrell: I do, too. I can't 'penetrate the veil', so I don't even talk about it anymore.

Fitts: About six months ago, somebody decided to jump onto Wikipedia and smear me. I guess it started right after the January 6th event. They started by saying that I was a Q-Anon conspiracy person.

Farrell: You?

Fitts: Apparently, that was walked back. I don't look at it very often, but that was walked back because everybody was like, "Fitts?"

For three and a half years, all I did was get yelled at because I said that Q-Anon was hope porn.

Farrell: The problem is that there was just enough truth in it to get people hooked. That's what gave it away as an op to me; it was a massive disinformation op. Now we're seeing all of that being labeled as 'domestic terrorism', which I find very frightening because of who they are labeling as 'domestic terrorists' right now.

Fitts: Let me say that I get the feeling the whole infrastructure to do domestic terrorism and to engineer false flags – all of these efforts are like judo; you have to work off the energy of the person attacking you, and there is no one there. It's almost like they decided to throw a party, and no one came. They don't have enough energy from the general population to engineer anything.

Farrell: Right, I agree.

You are dealing with a population right now that is so cynical of anything that the government, the media, or whoever wants to 'gin up' and put out there, the cynicism is growing. There is no response to it.

I don't know if you remember when the Warsaw Pact was collapsing and the movement of Solidarity in Poland. Solidarity had a very interesting approach to all of this if you read about them carefully. Their approach was: You can have your missiles and your tanks and your bureaucrats, and you can move all of the levers, but we own the culture.

So, when Jaruzelski was pushing his levers and giving his orders, nothing happened. That is the situation they are in increasingly. They have so overhyped the narrative that now it's almost as if they are going to require an even bigger narrative to get people on board. My suspicion is that will be another flop. People are going to ignore it. That's what I think has happened.

Fitts: I give credit to the Republicans because they stopped the commission and all that, but the January 6th investigation keeps falling flat.

Farrell: They keep trying to paint it as an insurrection, which it was not. It was clear that there were false flag actors and so on. The narrative is falling apart because people know, and they're not paying attention to it. That is what we have to start doing.

They come out with these big narratives, and it may be the Christ ET event. (I got that from Daniel Liszt, The Dark Journalist). I wouldn't put it past them to try something like that. The problem is they are dealing with an inertia now that was not there before.

People are not listening to them, and the plan/'scamdemic' is a case in point. They had 'ginned' that up so much with the 'get your vaccine' and so on. People are not doing it, so now we have lotteries and, "Let's give you $50 to take your free vaccine," and people are not going for that either.

Fitts: Somebody said to me recently that Trump had given a marvelous speech somewhere, and he's back.

I said to them, "Who cares? This is a man who invited everybody into the January 6th trap. This is a person who spent $10 billion of taxpayers' money to make the injections for Operation Warp Speed and put in charge of it a man who was a brain-machine interface expert. So who needs him?"

Farrell: That is exactly my feeling, too.

Fitts: I was thrilled that Trump beat Clinton because Clinton would have been far worse. So, be thankful for small things. But when it comes to what he did the last year, Trump completely betrayed his base. Thirty-four percent of the small businesses in America are out of business, and he did that.

So, I couldn't care less what Trump is going to do in the future, but why does anybody care about Trump anymore?

Farrell: I think it's because you still have a group of people who look at his whole record, not only Operation Warp Speed, and they are seeing some signs that he was trying to put America first. I think those signs are definitely there.

But when you factor in this Operation Warp Speed, and this colossal failure of the 'quackcines', that undoes all of that. He played right into the hands of the very people who he claimed that he wasn't going to go along with.

What he should have done – and I go back to what I said about President Kennedy – is what Kennedy did. He should have gone in there first thing and cleaned out the DOJ.

Fitts: Right. That's what he should have done. I was shocked when he put Sessions in charge.

Farrell: Oh, I was, too. And then Bill Barr.

Fitts: If it turns out that these injections really do sterilize a significant portion of the population – whether it's temporarily or permanently – Trump would have known that.

Farrell: At some point, I don't see how he could not have. This will rebound on him eventually, and you are going to see the Democratic Party running away from it as fast as they can. Right now, they're trying to embrace it and take credit for it, but you're going to see them run away from it so fast.

The other thing that I think Trump did – since we're talking about the multipolar world – is he at least conveyed the impression that he was dealing realistically with the existence of a multipolar world and that America can't go around and do whatever it says it's going to do.

He did try to engage with Putin, which I think is a favorable thing to say about his Administration.

Fitts: I think that if he had been able to engage with Putin much more, we would have had better results.

Farrell: I think, too, that he was trying to crack down on the human trafficking networks and so on, all to his credit.

Fitts: He did many good things and I admit it. He canceled Paris.

Farrell: But I'm in the 'same boat'. Who cares? At this point, what we need is someone at all levels of the Federal government.

The Saker recently made the observation that every agency of the government now has its own mini foreign policy. In other words, we don't have a foreign policy as a government, but we have a foreign policy narrative. It's, "Get Putin," which is insanity.

What we need right now is somebody who can set this country on a sane foreign policy more than anything else, and that foreign policy has to be realistic and acknowledge that this is a multipolar world. It's not that the US can just snap its fingers and expect everybody to go along. We're seeing that right now in Europe with Macron and 'Mad Madam Merkel' wanting to have their own dialogues with Russia. Germany has let it be known that they are going to find a way to do this, come what may.

Fitts: What is interesting is I remember when the wall came down in 1989. I was in Washington. That group actually thought they were converting to a unipolar world.

You look at the opportunity they had, and you realize that they totally 'blew it'.

It's possible that is what Mr. Global wanted, but I don't know.

Here is my closing question: How did the United States 'blow it' that big and that bad?

Farrell: You have talked about this many times. I think it's because of the role of Harvard in the Rape of Russia. What that signifies for me is that you had a group of 'foreign policy experts' coming up with all sorts of schemes and plans about what they were going to do. One book in particular that I bought and read was Francis Fukuyama's book, The End of History.

I read that in absolute shock because when he did talk about theology, he couldn't even distinguish between Monophysite Christians in Egypt and Eastern Orthodox Christians in Russia. He thought they were all the same thing.

In other words, when you are making that kind of basic, basic cultural conceptual mistake, what good are the rest of your pronouncements?

Fitts: Think about it: We lived in a world where we could oversimplify everything. That is the advantage of being a bully; you can keep it simple. What you are saying is that by being a bully and having that advantage, we lost the intellectual and cultural capacity to lead.

Farrell: Right, and it's because we weren't factoring in culture. No one at the time that the Soviet Union collapsed and the Berlin Wall came down was thinking that Russia was going to try to experiment, which is what I think is what they've been trying; being the first post-post-modernist state and moving back towards its traditional cultural roots as it has. No one thought that would happen because no one (and I'm blaming people like Francis Fukuyama (Japanese-American political scientist) understood the crucial cultural role of Christianity in Russia's culture. Russia as a nation was founded by that religion; there is no Russian culture without it.

The Soviet Union, if you look at it from that point of view, was one 170-year-long 'hiccup' and mistake.

Fitts: Wasn't the goal of that effort to depopulate the Christians?

Farrell: I think so. We see similar problems in Europe now in the idea that you can create a bureaucratic super-state and not take cognizance of the fact that French culture is different from Spanish culture that is different from other cultures. It's not working for precisely that reason. These think tank idiots cannot look at culture and understand its crucial importance.

They are making these plans in some sort of make-believe, academic vacuum, and we are seeing the results. It's not working. The rest of the world, thank you very much, does not want to be America.

Fitts: It's so strange because I don't get how you can operate as if you believe that the electromagnetic field doesn't exist, but then your science is manipulating it all day long to make you money. Somehow you must know that it exists.

Farrell: This is the problem with all cosmologies like that; they end up in self-contradiction. They always do. This is the big penalty that the West has to pay until it's willing to wake up and realize that there is a realm of cosmology that – for want of a better word – is transcendence.

It's going to be dooming these 'nutty sorts' of things.

Fitts: If a civilization loses its mind, it doesn't necessarily have a way to get it back.

Farrell: Right.

Fitts: I want to go back to the Harvard Corporation. If you had said to me, "Who is doing this?" as you know, my number one choice would be "The Harvard Corporation". I want to remind everyone that two or three years ago, one of our top stories was the fact that Harvard had decided to go dark. That says to me that their investment returns were going to depend on doing things that they needed to make sure their internal staff couldn't see and understand, so their internal staff had to go. That meant that things were going to get rather scary.

For Money & Markets this week, I looked at a chart of performance year-to-date of four stocks. One was Lloyds of London, one was the S&P Bank ETF, one was the World Stock Market, and one was Pfizer. The poorest performer, significantly underperforming the World Stock Market and the S&P, was Pfizer.

It's very interesting. If you watch how Pfizer has been trading, they are trading like a kickback scheme, not like a company. The shareholders know that all that profit and all those sales will go out the back door. They are a utility running a kickback scheme.

Farrell: You know what I think, and I apologize ahead of time to all the Trump messianics out there, but when Trump made that deal with the pharma companies to lower the cost of medicines, I suspect that the ‘quackcines’ were the quid pro quo.

Fitts: That is very likely.

So, Pfizer is the poorest performer, then the World Stock Market for the year is up about 13-14%, the S&P bank stocks are up 23% (double the S&P and four to five times of Pfizer), and then soaring above them is Lloyd’s.

If you look at the vaccine uptake versus the bank stocks, there is absolutely a relationship, in my opinion, between how many people are getting injected and how the bank stocks are faring.

Remember how the private prison companies would trade on a per-bed basis? It appears like the bank stocks are trading on a per-vaccine basis. This tells me that I’m right about the operating system. I haven’t been able to prove it yet, but I will.

Farrell: You are making a very important point there. I hope people appreciate it for what it is.

Data correlations, like what you are suggesting, with the bank stocks and the vaccine injections, are not proof, but they are an indicator of areas to look at.

Fitts: Exactly, it’s a mapping tool.

Farrell: It’s a mapping tool, and I hope that people will take away from that it’s crucial to start looking at the news and making these types of correlations. This is what most people are not able to do or haven’t been trained to do, but it’s easy once you get into the sync of it.

Once you start looking, oftentimes, you find – simply because you are keyed into looking for certain things – the proof. We have a vast listenership and readership. So, when we are talking about these types of speculations, what I'm hoping people will take away is that this is an area to look at and share whatever you find with us. This isn't a one-man or one-woman show that we are doing here; we are looking for these kinds of correlations. If you think you've found something, by all means, share it.

Fitts: The one I'm looking for is if enough people can use cash or pull their money out of the big banks, we can start a new dynamic that says, "You know something? If you make money on the great poisoning, we're going to pull our money out of you."-'Cash Friday'

I want to go back to the Harvard Corporation because Harvard kicked off the Rape of Russia, and Harvard kicked off whatever this is.

So, looking back over the last quarter, give us two thoughts: What did the last quarter ultimately mean to you regarding Economy and Geopolitics? And what should we look for in the next quarter?

Farrell: Personally, it increased my revulsion of what they are doing and my insistence now to withdraw from their system at every opportunity.

I mentioned my tendonitis in my finger and not going to a doctor. I quite literally put a notice on my website forum that says, "I've got this problem with my finger. What might it be?"

I had all sorts of people saying this, that, and the other. On the basis of what they were telling me, and I thought, "Well, it's probably tendonitis." So I wrapped my finger.

It's the little things that you can do like that to withdraw to the extent possible from this.

I'm with you; use cash. Get rid of the habits of using a debit card for every small purchase like a haircut or at the grocery store or what have you; use cash. You'll be amazed at, not only are you going to be less dependent on the debit card, but you will be amazed at how many people you are going to start doing business with who like cash.

The amazing thing is that the use of cash draws those people to you. So, I've been on this tear the last three months to use cash – more than usual for me. Occasionally, I would get something at the grocery store that I needed and use my debit card, but no more.

Fitts: This has come up often, and one of the things that I've noticed is how many really gifted, talented people involved in the push for freedom have had to walk away, just like you walked away from the University. They've had to walk away from whatever their institutional capture was. That was very scary for them and very painful. But at the same time, they realized what one person said to me, "There are friends showing up everywhere. For the first time in my life, I'm meeting all of these great people. It's like I'm not alone."

It reminds me of the man holding onto the rope for dear life when the ground is only three inches from his feet. People are letting go, and they are discovering that there is a whole new world out there.

Farrell: There is, and you will find that you will start attracting those types of people. I go back to topology: Topologists call it 'a basin of attraction'. So you do certain things, and are creating something in the field that attracts similar to you.

You would be surprised at how that works. That goes for research as well. If you are putting out the question to the field, "Is there a connection between vaccines and bankers?" that information will simply start flowing to you.

Fitts: There is no doubt that we are coming into the beginning of the school year, and they will double down on the evil. The game of chicken is going to a whole new level. I want everyone here to be prepared physically, mentally, and financially. Get ready to duck, get ready to fight, and get ready to do whatever you have to do.

If you go to the website, we have an Employee Disclosure Form, a School Disclosure Form, a Parental Consent Form, and a Family Financial Disclosure Form. These have all been prepared by brilliant people, including attorneys, to help you understand what your rights are and the rights that you can exercise in these situations.

What is interesting is when you force an employer or a school to do real due diligence, you can back them up because the science is behind you.

Farrell: Yes, and the other thing in regard to schools, is that you are the ones in charge, not the school board. If you go on YouTube, you can see all these school board meetings where parents are showing up and saying, “None of this,” and having the school board resign or walk off, and they are invoking Roberts’s Rules of Order and kicking them off.

It’s great, and we need much more of it, but you can do it. If you are on lockdown or are suspended from your job or whatever, use that time to your advantage and your children’s advantage. I don’t have children, so it’s easy for me to talk, but use that time to go to your local schoolboard meetings and find out exactly what the ‘quackademy’ is up to.

Fitts: One last thing before we close on Part I: Our movie of the week is a history of the pipe organ.

Farrell: Is it really?

Fitts: I was telling somebody about the crowdfund. Our ‘Blast from the Past’ is the crowdfund and our video. I was telling somebody how, through the crowdfund, I had learned so much about the history of the organ and the history of music, and I got very excited in the process of describing it.

So, tell us how Bruno is doing.

Farrell: Bruno is doing fine, and other than my finger, I would be, too.

Fitts: You need your little finger to play the organ?

Farrell: I do need my little finger, and I love Bruno. In fact, I started last week relearning some Mendelssohn pieces that I used to play. That has been extremely fun because Mendelssohn is a very good organ composer if people are not aware of him.

Fitts: I think of Mendelssohn as being very lighthearted. Is he lighthearted on the organ?

Farrell: Oh, no! He's anything but lighthearted. That's where Mendelssohn really shows and 'struts his stuff' as a composer. I'll send you a link.

Listen to his prelude in D minor, Opus 37. That's quite a piece.

Fitts: I just bought a complete Ring CD set because I drive back and forth along the Rhine whenever I go to Switzerland. So, I have a new big picture of the Rhinemaidens in my apartment.

Farrell: There was an opera singer who did a comedy presentation on Wagner's Ring.

Fitts: I've never heard of that.

Farrell: She was active in the late 1950's and early 1960's when her voice finally came out. She calls the Rhinemaidens 'the aquatic Andrews sisters'. I always think of that whenever I hear them mentioned.

Fitts: Have you ever heard of the Oera Linda book? Look it up on Wikipedia. It's a book that has a great controversy over whether it's true or not. Basically, it's a history of the Frisian culture and society. They had a tradition in the Middle Ages of something called a Rhinemaiden in the governance structure. It was a woman who was more mature and who was invited to travel down the Rhine before she assumed her responsibilities of governance.

It was meant to be a person of a certain experience and maturity but who had traveled the Rhine. Of course, that was where a number of the train partners came up and down.

We just wanted to check in on how you and Bruno were doing.

Farrell: Bruno and I are doing just fine. Thank you to everybody who donated. It's been a godsend just to wash the popular culture out of my existence.

Fitts: I don't think you realize that for the year of the election, we were all completely protected and safe from the 2016 election because we had disappeared into the esoterica of the pipe organ crowdfund.

Farrell: Pipe organs are the oldest keyboard instrument by far; it's about 2,000 years old. You look at the many composers who have had some connection with it – Frescobaldi, Monteverdi, Palestrina, and Mozart.

Fitts: There is science on the manipulation of the epigenetics to change people's bodies. I'm convinced that your organ healing every week in church was the uplifting of your epigenetics.

We will talk about this next time, but I'm working on a project that will provide the same world to pour yourself into to avoid paying attention to the general debasement.

Dr. Joseph Farrell, anything else before we close? Where can people find that wonderful video of you interviewing your member from Arizona?

Farrell: That is in my Members Area called 'A Dialogue with Peter'. It's well worth listening to just by way of practical steps that they are taking locally. I fully recommend people listen to that because it's quite astonishing.

Fitts: If you haven't joined Giza Deathstar, you are in for a treat. Go to <http://GizaDeathstar.com> and sign up.

Dr. Joseph Farrell, I will see you in Part II.

Farrell: Thank you for having me back.
